

Origins

Let's start at the beginning. I grew up in New York City. The city that never sleeps. I had many encounters with women. Not sexually, but I'll spare you the details. We're here to learn about the evolution of a man who has dealt with women almost all his life. (I am still living so I can't say all of my life). And I am that man. Ever since I started school women were my major interest. When I was 5 years old I knew they were different from me. And I noticed that. I'm sure that contributed to my fascination with the understanding of women. Some of my girlfriends (My friends that are girls) told me that I should write a book or even teach something to the men of this time period. I thought it was a crazy idea until now. Let's go to my first kiss. I always thought my first kiss was supposedly in kindergarten. With the light skin girl. I still remember her. She had gorgeous eyes. I really don't know why women's eyes are so important to me. Her eyes resembled the color of a very luxurious dark chocolate. Her lips were pink and glossy. Very easy to see the shine of her lips with the sunlight beaming towards the classroom. We sat next to the window. She had drawn a picture of us. She told me, "Wait a second". And quickly removed the paper from my sight. I knew she was doing something else to the picture. She then placed the picture back on the table. "Smell it". She told me. And I picked up the drawing. The aroma of the picture triggered my nose as I glanced to take a sniff. It was the smell of her perfume. Unfortunately, that wasn't the girl I kissed. The first girl I kissed was my own cousin. Yes. On the lips. I know because she told me. The kindergarten girl was sweet though. I thought it was sweet. I mean, I was 5. Everything was sweet back then. Playing tag in the schoolyard, eating and not giving a fuck about how you looked. Coming home with no homework to do. That was the life. I was living the dream. I know it may not be very masculine to say this, but I think the actions that a girl does without having to spend money are sweet. Like I don't need a $100 watch for me to know a girl likes me. No . No way. And back in kindergarten that girl showed me that.

Introduction

At a very young age, I was hanging out with girls. When I attended Elementary school I used to play with the girls at recess. I used to sit with the girls at the cafeteria table. The tables were separated and things were based on gender. So there were boys on the boys table and the girls at the girls table. But you will normally find me at the girls table. Every time someone did something wrong the whole table will get punished. No one will get to play outside at recess. The coordinator (Whatever they were called) will put the kids standing in a line while others played if they behaved inappropriately.

The boys used to do bad things. They were always getting in trouble. The whole table used to get punished. Since I was with the girls sitting at the girls table guess who didn't get punished ? ME
. Since I wasn't with the boys it meant that I wasn't throwing food with them, or banging on anything with them or anything of the sort. Yes, the boys will get mad and call me gay or say immature things to me. But that did not bother me because I was with girls. I was loving the women. So you call me gay because I'm focused on girls?
Kind of immature if you ask me. I think the boys didn't like me. Someone said, "Hey that's not fair he's a boy too! Why didn't Christian get punished as well?". And the coordinator will reply, "Because Christian was sitting at the girls table". And they would continue arguing and the girls will always have my back when those times came. At recess, I always made the girls laugh. I remember I used to hang out with 4 girls a lot. Named Justine Wright, Blanca Cortez, Beatriz Rojas, and the other one was called Elizabeth if I'm not mistaken. Currently, I don't know what happened to Elizabeth. After elementary school, I never saw her again. I have contacted Blanca recently. Trying to stay in touch with her. We honestly don't talk like before. Justine, on the other hand, has been doing a lot of traveling as far as I've seen. Beatriz, I don't know what's her problem with me. She somehow stopped caring for me over the years. It's sad because she used to make me birthday cards back in Elementary. Why have things changed?

Guess I'll have to live long enough to find out.
As years go by you will see how old friends change. You will see how things are never the same.
Nowadays a few old friends say I have changed. To be honest, I haven't really changed at all. I'm still the same guy from years ago. The only different thing about me now is that I say what I feel. I'm more honest and I like to fix mistakes that I make. That's all. I personally think that I still need to learn more about women. And I don't think I can ever perfectly understand them. But I always told myself, "If you can understand them half of the time, then you'll actually get somewhere with them". Now this book will help women learn about men. And it will help men learn about women. It's

The Human Women

Guide. The title says it all. The title is tricky too when you think about it. Some people might think, "Wow what a dumb name for a fucking book". Well, guess what? The title does not define the quality of a book nor does it define the success of the book in the upcoming years. The things in this book are all based on my experiences and the experiences of others. Girls are very open with me so they tell me things about their life. And when they tell me about their problems I give them advice. Some of their problems are even listed inside this guide. Sometimes I feel like a fucking counselor. But that's not what I am. I'm just a guy who enjoys studying and understanding women. I've talked about sex with women, about their relationships, about how they are feeling, about the crazy things they have done ,etc. I have also asked them if they ever cheated and so on. The responses some gave were shocking while others left me with a straight face. I've talked and made friends with different types of girls from different races. Welcome to The Human Women Guide. A guide that guides women with men, a guide to guide men with women, for humans. Hope you learn something

Chapter 1: Dates & First Moves

A first date should not be romantic. A date is a date. It is a day you pick a girl/guy up and plan a day of fun. Unique things.

Taking a girl/guy to the park. Going to the beach and talking with the girl/guy and diving into the water together.

Unique things. Instead of going to dinner for the first time. Dates are transformations from friends to best friends to girlfriend/boyfriend.

Don't rush the one thing that makes your life incredible and take the easy street. Take things at a normal pace and you'll win the race. So let's start with some advice. On the first date please don't do movies. This fails every time. You and the person you want to bond with won't bond at all. Staring at a big movie screen with no type of talking between you and the girl/guy is pointless. You want to make some kind of chemistry between you and the other person. I know some people might have a comeback to that and say "Well we can talk about the movie after we are done watching it". If you think that, then you're wrong. Talking about the movie doesn't help you learn important things from the person. You just learn one of these things: He/she either likes the movie or he/she doesn't. You may learn if he/she likes popcorn or hot dogs or cotton candy. But come on. Do you really want to know if he/she likes these types of foods or if he/she likes the movie? No. You want to know what this person is about. You want to see if this person is worth being around with. You want to know if this date will be the last between you and him/her. That's what you want to know. That's why movies are not a good idea for a first date. You can do movies later on in the relationship. (If a relationship ever occurs) . But not at your first date. So now you might be asking yourself "Where can I go for my first date?" Well, the question from me to you is "What places are fun and let you talk without interruptions?" It shouldn't be a fancy dinner. Why not fancy dinners? Well, let's say you're a guy. And you pay for this huge dinner for this girl. Next thing you know you find out she isn't really your type. Then you also find out that you have a huge bill to pay at the end of your dinner. Sounds pretty bad doesn't it? It does. Don't do fancy dinners for first dates. Especially if you're the one paying. After the dinner, your wallet will be blown off before you can even run away from the scene. And for all the men out there.... the majority of the time a woman will pay attention to how expensive the dinner is. If the food is too cheap, some women will think you're a cheap guy with a minimum wage job. And if the food is expensive they will assume you have money. But you will be so broke after the date you will be using coupons for the next time you meet a girl. Some girls can be expensive. Some men can be too. There's actually guys out there that will make a woman spend loads of money on them. I personally don't take money from any woman. Except my mother. But come on, who doesn't? So now you want to know a few places to go for a date. There aren't a lot of places. But there are a few I can list from the top of my head. So in the next few lines I will name a place and the reason why you should date in that place. 1st on the list is a date on the beach. You and your date can dive into the water together. Splashing and laughing. Get a suntan together. Talk with each other while tanning. If you're a guy you can buy your lady a drink. And if you're lucky enough she'll let you rub sunscreen lotion all over her body. If she doesn't let you then no worries. That doesn't indicate that she's not interested in you. It just means she's not comfortable with you touching her body on the 1st date. That's all. Some girls don't mind, though.

While others do. It all depends on your date.
2nd on my list is a date in the park. Go to a park.
Not the park with the swings and the local kids playing tag in the water.
Not that park. I'm talking about an adult park.
(That's what I like to call it). Over in New York City central park will be a good place for a date.
You can go bike riding in the park with your date.
You can get some fun out of that. Or go for roller skating or do anything else the park gives you permission to do. Some parks have a great view of a lake or a beautiful streaming fountain. The things around you can make the date go special. Being in the park, walking and talking. Enjoying the views is a very relaxing date. 3rd on my list will be the arcade. If your date isn't into games then you may skip this place. But remember that dates are all about fun. You want to see how funny or cool your date can be. You can talk with him/her and play laser tag. And of course, see how much he/she sucks at dance dance revolution. 4th on my list would be her house or your house.

Some people really think that this is the worst thing to do for a first date. But if you and your date have been talking for a long time and have known each other for a while then why is this a bad thing? This shouldn't even be bad at all. I have gone to girls houses a bunch of times. And we are only friends and nothing has ever happened. And I've never tried to have sex with them. I have seen women in pajamas. I have seen women in their bras. Women have even sat right on my lap. I did not get horny or hard off of that. Or anything else I've seen. Not all guys think like me. I know that. But if you're a guy and your date is at her house converse with her. If you're a lady reading this then converse with him.

You just don't go to a stranger and say "Let's go on a date". You actually get to know the person 1st before going on one.
If the person is cool then you say "Hey come to my house for our first date I'll make us pizza". Simple.
If you see the person isn't good, then you simply don't invite them over.
For the simple fact that he/she might want you only for sex or have bad intentions

Chapter 2: What to do when a woman doesn't text back

(Some of the content in this chapter may apply to both men & women. Just switch the genders around if needed)

This chapter will have:

- 1- Information that may be useful for a lesbian/bisexual
- 2- Things that lead to unreturned texts and calls
- 3- How to get women to respond more
- 4- Reasons a girl doesn't text back
- 5- How to get out of a crazy and boring conversation with a girl without upsetting her (Applies for men as well)

This Chapter will not have:

- 1- How to get women to have sex with you by text
- 2- How to flirt with women by text
- 3- How to annoy a woman by text
- 4- If you were expecting this then you really need to finish this book. Because your mind is still in the wrong stage

Things That Lead to Unreturned Texts and Calls

Too much anticipation / nervousness: If a girl really likes you, she might be too shy to reply to your correspondence. She might end up putting a great deal of pressure on herself to do well with you -- or be too jittery to type out a reply or answer your call. She may really, really want to talk to you, but never end up doing so.

Too much of a state-shift: This one's a little tougher to get your mind around at first, but let's say you met a girl and both of you were really excited and in high energy. And you call her back later or text her when she's in much lower energy than when you met her. She's likely to look at that ringing phone or blinking text message and think to herself, "I can't talk to him right now; it's too much work."

A bad ending: "The end is important in all things." Even if you had a perfect start or opening to the conversations and the majority of the interaction went swimmingly, if the ending goes awkward or stale, the chances you never hear from a girl again go up dramatically

She wasn't all that interested: This happens to everyone. Even to me at times. It's quite often one of the other three reasons that's to blame. But sometimes it's really just that she wasn't as interested as she'd seemed. It happens.

Spend Less Time with Women and Get Them Responding More

I have noticed that women respond faster to your texts when you have spent less time with them. This doesn't always happen. But the majority of the time it does. Usually when you're not around for a while and you text them to keep up with them they will usually say something like, "I haven't heard from you in so long! How have you been?" or "What's been going on lately? How is your love life now?" And they will immediately open up a strong conversation. Women that are dull and boring will say something like "Nothing much", or "Same old shit". And in reality there's no such thing as "same old shit". (Yes I take things very literal at times). It's impossible to go through the same thing every day if you want to get technical. Now don't make this a habit. Don't spend less time with women just to get them responding. Like I said in the beginning. This doesn't always happen. And you should only do this when you absolutely get no type of response for a long time & want to re-engage again.

When a Girl Doesn't Text Back

Let's say regardless how your interaction went when you met the girl for the first time, you ended up with her number, but now you've called or texted her and she hasn't replied. What do you do? When a girl doesn't text back or when a girl doesn't call back, the first thing you want to do is not panic. It's not the end of the world, and it doesn't mean you've lost her for good. It just means she hasn't gotten back to you yet. (That was actually funny if you really thought I was going to say something else). But I'll stop there with the funny business. Now let's get down to real business. I once had an interaction with a girl where I texted her and received no reply. Then I waited a couple of hours then texted her again. Still no reply. So I did not message her for one whole day and then I got a reply from her saying that she's sorry and that she just has been busy. Persistence. It's the difference between the men who want it -- and get it -- and the men who don't. I knew a guy who'd have women disappear and act completely disinterested, but he'd just persist relentlessly. (Calmly and in a savvy way) and eventually women would reappear, & agree to meet up with him. Persistence via text or phone can work wonders...BUT, it's quite important that you persist in a cool, laid-back, socially savvy way, because there are all kinds of wrong ways to persist, and men for some reason are particularly good at finding them. Don't fall into the traps that most men do of getting needy, whiny, complainy, or pissed off at women for not replying. That guarantees you don't get a reply! There have been various times where I've had to do some persisting myself. One time a girl told me she would text me later and she never did. So one day on her Facebook I could see that she's in a sad mood. Since she had a sad status about a particular thing. I immediately commented on her status and said "Sweetheart mind texting me and telling me what's wrong? You know I'm here if you need someone to talk to." And guess what? A couple of minutes later I received a text. This is the power of persisting. But like I said earlier, you must persist in a cool laid-back savvy way because there are many wrong ways to persist. Wrong ways that can make a girl call you a jerk or not even talk to you anymore. Many girls get offended easily so knowing the right things to say, matters all the time. Never say things you don't mean though. If you don't mean it then don't say it. Women know when you don't mean something. (Most of the time they'll know). So watch what you say. Also don't say things you normally wouldn't say or even use words you normally wouldn't use. Instead, here are some things to keep in mind so that you're persisting in an intelligent, attractive way that'll make a girl far more likely to want to start talking to you again:

- Don't get mad or accusatory. Yes, it may seem rude that she hasn't replied, but...she probably sees you as a stranger! She probably doesn't realize what an awesome guy you are (If you're awesome) . Getting mad is 100% guaranteed to scare her off. So refrain from anything like, "I don't understand why you're being so distant" or "Why aren't you writing back?"

- Don't get whiney. Just as bad as mad is sad: whiney, complainy men are a huge turn off to every woman on the planet. "I just want to talk to you -- I'm not trying to be too pushy, but blah, blah, blah". No. It isn't appealing for you to get something like that from a woman, and it isn't appealing for a woman to get something like that from a man.

- DO be calm & relaxed. "Hey Karen, I figured I'd drop you a line since we haven't connected in a few weeks. I just got back from the big vacation and I'm starting to delve back into work again. I hope life's been treating you excellent... let me know what's new with you! - Christian". Treat the situation as if no one is to blame and the two of you are just reconnecting after a little time being busy with your own things. If you have some hurt feelings, stifle them; phone calls and text messages are not the places to be airing grievances or bitching about bad emotions. You want to be a breath of fresh air; a provider of good feelings and peace. That's the kind of thing that will make a woman want to pick up the phone and start talking to you because she probably doesn't get it anywhere else in her life. And I know this because I've bitched about my emotions to women before.

- DO stop from being overly entertaining. "I just saw the most amazing movie today!" or "OMG, I think my head is going to explode, you'll never believe what just happened to me...!!!" Anything like that is no good. That kind of stuff is okay -- maybe -- in three or four texts the conversation would end. But texting that to open a text conversation is horrible. Worse, in my experience, it rarely works, and when it does it gets you attention from girls who are curious -- rather than girls who are interested. Stick to normal stuff and you'll be fine. Here are some rules I set up that you must follow if you're a guy writing to a girl

Rule 1: Never start a message with "Hey sexy" or "Hi you pretty, beautiful thing". If she's not calling you handsome or sexy or sending you winky faces with hearts then don't message none of that to her either. Plain and simple

Rule 2: Avoid sending too many messages. I know she might be the only thing on your mind at the moment, but let's keep that a secret between us, otherwise you may freak her out. So text once and when you get a reply you may text back. If she doesn't respond to your text you should generally hold off until tomorrow before you try to contact her again.

Rule 3: Use texting that will make her smile. This is more of a tip but what I'm about to tell you is really helpful. If you're next to a girl and you have her number you can text her something like, "Who's that hot guy standing next to you?" or "You have my number, but you're only allowed to call me once per day". If after texting her something funny makes her smile then you did well. A woman is more likely to answer a number she recognizes instead of one she does not. So make sure you give her something to remember you by. Finally, don't ever be afraid to give a girl a little time off if she doesn't reply for a while. I have a method which is something like this:

- She doesn't reply once: give her a day of silence (Meaning don't write to her for one whole day)

- She doesn't reply twice in a row: give her 2 - 3 days silence.
- She doesn't reply three times in a row: give her a week of silence.

Then, if she's still not replying, you may want to try something more bold and experimental, depending on the situation. There's no one-shot way to re-engage a girl who isn't responding. It's going to vary enormously on why she isn't responding in the first place. If she's too shy, a nice, warm voice mail might do the trick, or toning down your texting if you're coming across too entertaining or too "loud". On the other hand, if it feels like too much of a state-shift for her, sharing some more normal details of your life and asking her about hers via text may turn out to be just the thing needed to bring re-engagement. If that doesn't work then move on and don't talk to her anymore. You can't be wasting time on girls/men. There're many other girls/guys out there that won't do the things one guy/girl does. There are other girls/guys that will take their time to reply back that are truly interested in

you. Stressing over one person? DON'T

Chapter 3: Signs Shine

The eyes to me are probably the most important thing to me. To me, the eyes of another human being can tell you if they like you. Over the years I have made tremendous eye contact with girls & the ones I talked with, actually admitted that they liked me. So if a girl or guy gives you that look. That stare. That eye contact that makes you feel some type of way, that makes you nervous. Then chances are he/she is checking you out. But let's say you're looking at a girl. And as you're looking at her she looks back at you and says "What are you looking at?". Then that's just a bitch with an attitude. Sometimes you can't even stare for way too long. Since its creepy. Most girls prefer men to go up to them and talk with them. Rather than stare. Guys do too. If a girl is staring at me, I expect her to come up to me. Even if she's ugly. I don't care. But its the effort that counts. Some girls expect a guy to talk to them, but some girls can't take their own advice. As you can see this chapter is about signs. I will now explain the signs that determine if a man or woman likes you. So for the men here's something I want to tell you. The women who seem very interested in you on first meeting you aren't time-wasters, and they're not being insincere. They really may enjoy the long conversation they have had with you -- or maybe they're trying to be polite and sociable with someone who's taken the time to come up and get to know them. But, it's very important to note the difference between reactions and results. The two are different things altogether, and reactions can often times be misleading. A girl smiling and laughing and chatting with you are mostly reactions. Her moving somewhere with you or giving you her number readily when you ask for it fast -- those are a few examples of results. Results are what you ultimately need, regardless of how promising (or not) her reactions may be. When you ask for the number fast, you get a real result. The girls who like you will happily give theirs. The ones who aren't will hesitate, or refuse. Now for the women. Men who get physical with you like you. Women tend to do this too, but men do it more often. For example; instead of waving hi I would normally hug or get in physical contact with a woman. If I don't like the girl then I won't even bother hugging her or anything. There're some girls in the past where I have given them fives just like I do with guys. This puts them in the NON-Like able zone. Meaning I get along with them but I don't want to touch them since I don't want them to think that I like them. I will now explain to you the signs of cheating. Women are beautiful human beings who need attention and they are getting less of it during the week. It's often said that women cheat as a result of an inattentive boyfriend/husband. Whereas men cheat because we can't control our hormones and sexual desire. So, the obvious is this: Most women don't give a shit about anything a guy does, except his ability to pay for her, how good he treats her and how good he fucks her. Yeah, I know it sounds brutal, but I'm just being honest. If I don't keep it real out here then who will? Signs a woman is cheating are simple. If she's hanging out with her guy friend too much. He might just be a "Friend", but if you don't know where she's at and you have not personally met the guy then you're in trouble. You must know a woman's guy friends. (The ones she hangs out with a lot obviously). Another sign a woman might be cheating is if she changes normal things to weird things. For example; if your girlfriend usually asks you for sex and one day you say NO (For whatever reason). Then out of nowhere she stops asking for sex and one day she says "I'm going to go out with some friends". The chances are that she might be lying and might be visiting a guy that will give her the dick and attention. Because that's mainly what girls are about. They are about attention. Haven't you noticed that girls compete with other girls on the low? Even they don't know. Signs a man is cheating is if he doesn't want you to meet none of the girls that are on his phone. Another sign is the odor of another female. If he goes out with his guy friends and he comes back smelling like a female then something is wrong. And he can't say "My mother hugged me and I got the odor" because you can call his mother and if his mother doesn't confirm it happened then he's a liar. Plus he said he was going to be with his guys, not his damn mother. DOUBLE LIAR. The reality is that the way women act and the things they desire are far more different than what a man wants. Most men see a woman and their eyes are satisfied and then they want their penises to be satisfied with the woman they laid eyes on. The words love, attention, care, respect, quickly bounce off their heads. They just want SEX. But this is something all men share. And something that can't be taken away. But a real man's job is to show a woman that he isn't trying to rush the sex . He must show her that he's interested in her as well. So even if you're a man thinking about sex, the point is not showing it. I know you want to have sex with her and do a lot of things with her. But that can wait. Normally if you initiate a conversation about sex with a girl you would most likely scare her. Then she most likely will tell her friends "All he wants is sex nothing else! What a jerk, all guys are the same! That's all they want". You don't want a girl speaking about you like that. You must show respect to a woman. What's all the rush for sex? Do you want sex that bad? Go fuck a hoe in the street. Women who are not hoe's are not sex objects. I personally don't want sex with a woman. That's not what I actually want. I can pretty much get sex from any girl if I wanted to. I just want love and care. I want to have an awesome relationship. So like that when I'm 80 I can say; "Damn I had a good fucking time with that girl" . Eventually, I will fuck her if I do the right things and treat her right. Sex is earned. Just like money is earned and how a prize is earned. If you're really good looking then sometimes a woman will have sex with you fast. But it depends. I know because I had girls that said that they would fuck me and ride me and blah blah blah. Once you're with a girl you must keep her satisfied in whatever. When a girl is unhappy, or dissatisfied or there's failed communication between you & her she's tempted to look elsewhere. And cheat. And when you catch her cheating she would probably say "It just happened". It's all bullshit, though. But can you believe some girls will actually put up with YOUR bullshit though and not cheat? There are only a few girls like that. The majority of girls in life will aim for your money and things like that. So watch out for those things. You can tell if a girl only cares for your money when she sees your stack of money and tells you to buy her things or when she asks you how much you make at your job. Shit like that is how a man can tell if a woman is a gold digger. Now let's get to men now. Time to tell all my girls reading this about men. Now men like sex, every girl knows that. And some men like blow jobs more than sex. I wonder why. But men want a girl that's going to be there with them when things need to get done. Guys don't like girls that talk a lot. If you run your mouth too much that's something men don't like. It gets annoying. (I've seen lots of bad cases with girls that open their mouth too much). For example; Running your mouth and telling a guys business to someone else is one of the reasons why girls get killed by men. Avoid doing that at all costs. (I'm not saying you're going to get killed but I'm saying it is not the right thing to do. Plus it saves you the trouble/drama). Men like when a woman does something he likes. So if I play video games and I'm playing Mortal Kombat and a girl picks up the controller and tells me "Can I play with you?" That's like heaven for us guys. We like that kind of stuff. So ladies if a guy does something try it out with him. If a guy plays soccer, try and play soccer with him one day. If a guy plays basketball tell him you want to shoot some hoops with him. Getting into an activity that a guy likes is good because who knows? You might like it or something. An activity with a partner brings the relationship together. An activity both partners like and enjoy. A man likes a girl who doesn't put his wallet out of service. If a guy is constantly spending money on a girl and his wallet keeps getting thinner then he will most likely get tired of the same shit and leave you and find another girl. Ask for less and give more love. If he's the right guy then he will give you things without you asking him for them. Which brings me to the next thing. Have a job. If you're a girl that has no job depending on a man or a girl that doesn't get her own money then that might bother a guy. I personally at this age would like a girl to have a job and her own things. Since it puts less weight on my shoulders and it would mean that she would rarely ask for things. Which means I will save up money. Which means I can buy her a really nice anniversary ring one day and plan out some great stuff for us. It's common sense. You leave a guy broke and how do you expect better things from him? A woman that lies is the biggest thing a guy hates. Well, lying is something everyone hates. But when a girl lies a man feels betrayed. Communication and honesty are the keys to a great and strong relationship with someone. Whether it's a friend relationship, boyfriend relationship etc. Now here's something for men and women. Don't bring up your ex's . If a guy/girl doesn't ask you about your ex-boyfriend or ex-girlfriend then don't tell him/her. It's kind of rude and awkward if someone tells you about their past that you didn't even ask to hear. I personally ask some girls about their past since it helps me find out what she might do in the future. I remember one girl told me she used to cheat on guys in the past and guess what she does now? You got it. Still cheats on guys. By knowing someone's past whether it's a guy or girl you can pretty much tell the kind of person someone is (Even if they say they've changed). You can also tell who someone is by knowing who they hang out with. "Let me see who your friends are and I will tell you, who you really are".

Chapter 4: Facts about men & women

I've been with women almost my whole life. I mainly associate with women and mainly hang out with them too. (I only talk to men when i have to). I only have one male best friend and I hang out with him at times. But women are a major part of my life . I can't deal with men. Men just bring too much trouble and are always talking about nonsense. Women are more interesting to me and I rather hang out with a girl than to hang out with a group of guys heading to a local night club. Understanding women and knowing what they are about is a major part of my life. So I'm always taking my time in getting to know them. Now according to my recent studies with women there's a lot of things to cover so lets get started.

Mommy's little boy - I've heard about this a lot. A grown woman doesn't want a mommas boy. Some girls don't want to deal with young boys who need to be asking their mother to go out. If you're a man still living with your mother & your mother basically keeps you on lock down (Giving you a curfew etc) then there's a problem with that. A woman won't want to waste her time with that.

The information - I tried it , I failed and when I tried it again it worked. A girl won't give you her contact information if you're with someone or if people are around and you're barely talking to her . She will ignore you or lie and say she doesn't have any to give. To properly get the information you need you must spend some time with her and talk with her. Life is like the game "Sims" you must keep that social meter up to keep the bond up!

Not around the bush - When a girl asks you something you need to be straight up with her (honest) and not go around the bush (lie)

Dumb ass don't ask. Give! - A girl shouldn't ask you for things and you shouldn't ask her. If you want to give her something, you just do it! (Except sex, you just don't come out of nowhere and do that , because if she doesn't want any sex with you then there's a problem. So this doesn't apply to sex). I remember one time back in high school. One of the girls wanted a hug from me and i told her "You never asked for a hug" and she replied "I never knew I had to ask". In other words she wanted a hug , and was expecting a physical interaction between her and I Childness - In life assumptions sometimes lead to lies. So when you assume things about a girl, make sure they're accurate . For example ; if you think a girl ignores you and then you confront her and tell her that she ignored you , stating that you don't like it and that you will do it back to her is childish behavior. You don't even know if she actually ignored you or not. Once you know the actual reason then you may say something to her about the situation. But avoid the childishness . Other examples of childish behavior are ; "I'm not going to talk to you because you did not talk to me the other day" or "I'm going to leave you. You'll be waiting in the rain since you left me waiting in the rain the other time". Those are examples of childish behaviors. Don't behave like that Beauty care - Most girls care about their beauty and they are always doing things to maintain it. But some girls care so much about their beauty that if they had a simple mark on their face such as a cut, pimple, etc they will not feel normal and will be so concerned and uncomfortable with the situation that they will try and hide it . Also if a girl does her hair or things like that , just notice it. If you notice the little things in a girl she will like that. Compliment her on the little things . "Hey you did your nails ! They look amazing" or "Your hair color is lighter now, it looks so nice" and she'll say "Oh wow you noticed! Thank you!!!"

Indecisive moments - Many women are indecisive . They don't make fast decisions and they're always thinking about things. I remember one of my girls was a virgin and she freaked out and said "Yes" to a guy that wanted to hook up with her. She went to me and told me the situation. She was very undecided and didn't know how to get out of the situation. So remember that girls have their indecisive moments and you should always wait for a girl to be fully decided for a decision she makes Changes - Women don't like when guys keep changing. Even if it means to impress someone. A man should not change himself all of the time just to make a woman happy. If a woman likes a man she likes him for who he is

Time is everything - I have failed in the past in making time with some women , and I have lost those women for good. (Still don't know what happened to any of them currently as I'm writing this book). P.S They were my friends not girlfriends . Making time for a woman is very very important. If you don't make time for them eventually they will get tired of it. I remember a girl used to message me. One day she said "Hey" then seconds later she wrote "Hey <3 " and i never responded. And even the message before those two messages were not being responded by me either. Make time for a woman , whether it is a friend or a girlfriend.

No good guys in my park - Women don't like nice guys . Some can't stand too much sweetness coming from a guy. There was one time a girl complained about my niceness. She said she had never dealt with a nice guy before and that she doesn't like that kind of treatment. I found it amusing since I was getting to know her. Like what the fuck was she expecting? I can't be rude while I'm getting to know her. I'm not nice though and I'm not bad either. I just know when to tell a girl "Hey you need to chill the fuck out". When a girl is rude I immediately put her in her place. And that's what I did with that girl who said I was supposedly "Too nice" for her. I told her not to text me or look for me. She was basically a stuck up bitch. I told her to keep being with guys that treat her like shit and she got mad. And I normally don't call a woman a bitch. But if you're a woman and you say a guy is too nice for you or that something that isn't even remotely a problem bothers you..then you're a bitch. You can't waste time with the bullshit of one woman. You just can't. If one doesn't appreciate you then NEXT! The word "Next" is a man's most powerful word. When a guy is too nice to a girl she sees that as a sign of weakness. If a guy consistently cares for a girl, then he must place her in higher esteem than himself. The guy seems to not value himself, so she underestimates him. Women are programmed by evolution to select men who have high social status, and a primitive indicator of a social status is that a man has enough superior qualities. There are plenty of "Nice guys" who are jerks too. Like jerks, they just want sex with a hot girl, and they think the best way to get in between her legs is by treating her like a princess. They're just like the jerks but, besides having bad motives also have bad execution. Which is horrible and the real nice guys are the real victims here. And sometimes I do feel sorry for them. Since they are actually good human beings and they just fall in love with a woman and feel butterflies inside whenever they see her. They want sex as part of a romantic experience, but the sex is very peripheral to the real desire: Which is to just be with her and treat her right. They cannot control their emotions and they naturally manifest through kind deeds and acts of compassion. But they cannot avoid the actions in the mind of a woman, and they are seen as low-value mates. It is not really the fault of the woman; since she cannot control what she feels, much as the man cannot control his own feelings. A girl wants a man that can protect her. She doesn't want to be with a man in the street that doesn't know how to defend himself and defend her as well. A girl doesn't need to be with a gang banger or a guy with a gun to be safe and protected. But she wants a man that will back her up if anything happens. Or that will say something to another man if a man ever looked at her the wrong way or disrespected her while you were not around. This is what a girl is looking for. Now let's get to the most important thing girls look for- Confidence. A girl looks for a man that has confidence. If you're not scared to go up to a girl and talk to her then she might get attracted to that. Confidence is a major thing a girl will look for and what most girls are attracted to. And what many guys do not have. I remember back in junior high school how I met one of my ex-girlfriends. She was very confident and she came up to me and said "Hi" and started a conversation with me. I loved the way she was flowing with energy. Her coming up to me proved that she had some kind of interest in me and that she was willing to sacrifice some of her own time to get to know me. I liked that about her and women like that about men too. Men having confidence is very good. If you're a man and you're afraid of rejection and don't know what to say to a girl, don't worry. I was in the same position as you a long time ago. At first I was very shy and nervous to meet new women. I was worried that if I went up to them I would run out of things to say. Also, the beautiful girls gave me a very hard time. When you have a gorgeous girl in front of you, the words just don't seem to come out. The Nervousness running through my body reaches its peak. But...the whole shyness and fear must go away. The more you talk to women the better you'll get. Remember practice makes improvement! In my world practice doesn't make perfect since there's no such thing as perfection in this world. But if you practice you will get better. When you have a conversation with a girl start off with her surroundings. So if shes at the library you can say "What book are you reading?" and then she'll respond. And then you can say "Oh sounds interesting, do you usually come to this library?" and then a conversation can start and shift from there. Sometimes surroundings won't always help. You might be outside in the street and spot a cute girl walking down the sidewalk. So situations get more difficult depending on the place that shes in. I've covered women. Now it's time to cover men. The women I've talked with over the years have told me lots of things about men and I have seen many things men have done. Some men are savages that don't know how to act. And that can't use the proper words to talk to a female. Now according to my recent studies with men. There's a lot going on so let's get started.

Tell their friends the truth - Men at times will tell their homies/friends/pals etc... the truth about what they are feeling for a girl. A guy can be chatting with a girl and then behind her back he tells his friends "This bitch actually thinks i like her"

Same damn routine - I understand women out there have to deal with the same shit over and over and over again. The routine is this with men : It sometimes starts with "You're cute" then it turns into "I'm nothing like the other guys you've been with" then to daily talks with him and then the talking soon stops and you find out he's too busy with other girls . Orthe talking doesn't stop and you eventually have a relationship with him and you find out he's cheating on you with another woman. This is something some men do

What a show! - Some men like to show off in front of their friends. So if you're his girlfriend and he's with his buddies you might get treated like shit or he might treat you differently . Not all guys are like this but I'm just putting this out there

Put in that work or you're dirt! - A man likes a woman that puts in work. Meaning if he puts effort he expects his girlfriend to do the same. I personally hate when I'm doing all the work in a relationship and the girl isn't putting any effort in anything . It goes for friendships too. Don't tell a guy "You don't write to me anymore you've been acting like a stranger" and then when he messages or writes to you , you don't write back or text him at all. Like you really need to put your part in something . So remember my quote "In life don't bitch about anything if you're the reason for the outcome".

Cry a river of your own stupidity - Some women cry over their own stupidity .

And many men hate that. If you give a guy a bunch of chances in a relationship and you're always crying and whining about him breaking your heart and making you feel sad then don't fucking tell it to your guy friend. Because guess what? We get mad when we hear shit like that. If you're talking to your guy friend or lady friend about your boyfriend and you're always crying, then leave the fucking douchebag and move on with your life !!! I hate when girls get sentimental of the actions they make themselves. No one told you to give the guy another chance , no one told you to keep dealing with his bullshit. So do you have a guy friend or lady friend you tell your stuff to? Guess what ? He/she might get mad because you keep giving chances to the guy that treats you like shit , and you keep forgiving him and being with him

Stressing a guy - Sometimes girls wonder how they stress a guy out . Well let me tell you right now. Men don't like stress. When you stress them out they eventually get tired and leave. There's a friend of mine that deals with a girl that always thinks that he's with other girls and thinks he's doing things behind her back when in reality he just goes home , sleeps and does his regular things. When a girl assumes things about a man without knowing it's fucking stressful. How would you like it if you're in a relationship with someone who's always assuming you're doing things behind their back? Sounds annoying right? Well it, is . If you're a woman don't stress a man out with your assumptions. Take time off to actually look for the truth, because most of the time assumptions lead to lies

Left hanging - Don't leave a man hanging. Don't say things and then don't do them ,basically don't promise things and then break those promises. I've seen it happen before. Girls would lie to a man and not live up to their word. If you feel some type of way then let it out. Be honest with a man and he'll probably be honest with you back. There have been times where I've heard many men call girls liars. Men aren't the only ones that lie, many females have the habit of lying and thinking they can get away with it. Well, you can't. Once you lie to a man, that man will tell his guy friends and everyone will eventually know that you're a liar and cannot be trusted Mature breakup - Most guys like mature breakups. Don't break up with a man over text just out of nowhere. Give him signs that you are going to break up with him. Tell him in person (if possible). That's the best way to do it. Also over the phone. But doing it by text is plain immature , childish and so , so cowardly....

Loss of contact - Don't disappear. If you're going to disappear and vanish from a man's life then tell him. Sentimental men don't like it when girls just leave without reason. Leaving without reason is immature and also so, so cowardly....

An excuse burger? - Men don't like excuses so don't make them. Some girls have the tendency to make excuses . I have dealt with women that would actually make an excuse instead of actually saying what they feel. Some girls think that if they make an excuse they will seem more "Nicer". Well excuses are annoying . I remember one time this girl agreed to work on a project with me. And i had to keep reminding her about the project. She always made an excuse. Saying things like "I haven't been able to start on it because of things I've been doing". And like everyday she had a new excuse. It's been literally many many months. And till this day we still didn't even do the project. So why would you say you want to do something with me and then make excuses? Like be honest and say "I no longer want to work on the project with you" and that's it. Like my feelings won't get hurt. Excuses don't make you look nicer, they make you look more like a hypocrite, and a liar! Also when a guy breaks up with a girl or when something wrong happens. One of the excuses I've heard girls say to guys were "Oh i only dated you because I felt sorry for you". That's the most stupid and most immature thing ever. Why would you say that to a guy? That's why girls nowadays don't get respected by men because they are always running their mouths and saying things that offend a man. There's no way you dated a man just because you felt sorry for him. So just because you feel sorry for someone you'll date them? That's what you're trying to say? How about the men living in the poor areas of Africa? You feel sorry for them don't you? They are poor living in tough conditions but does that mean you'll date any of them? Think about it and you'll see how stupid some girls are with their weak comebacks. So now that I have covered the most important facts about men and women you now understand each gender. Have in mind that men make excuses as well. I'm not saying women are the only ones. But women tend to make way more excuses than men. If you don't believe me and you're a girl think about all the times you have made an excuse to a guy. Didn't you make an excuse to get out of a particular situation? Or because a guy was annoying you so much you had no other choice but to make an excuse?. It happens. And it's perfectly fine if you're in a bad situation. Even though women make excuses, men seem to lie more than women. Have in mind that excuses and lies are different things . And do not necessarily have the same meaning. I will give you an example of an excuse and a lie right now , so like that you can differentiate between the two. An excuse is when someone uses words to lessen his/her blame for things. So if a male or female feels like they are being blamed for something they will most likely use an excuse . Here's an example of an excuse :

Boy: Haven't seen you in a while . Want to hang out? I can treat you to dinner

Girl : Yes its been such a long time we can definitely go out

Boy : What day will be good for you?

Girl: Next week Monday we can go out

Boy: Alright sounds great then I'll talk to you Monday

Monday Arrives:

Boy: What time are we leaving today?

Girl: We won't be able to go to dinner today so how about next Wednesday?

Boy: Alright talk to you Wednesday then

Wednesday Arrives:

Boy: Are you ready for today?

Girl: Something came up I have to babysit so let's do it Saturday

Saturday Arrives :

Girl : Hey just want you to know that we will have dinner together , i promise!

But i have been dealing with some family issues , like my mother just gets on my nerves

Boy : Alright so when are we having dinner ? because its been like a week already

Girl : I'll let you know don't worry

Boy : Okay

Many weeks go by:

Boy: You still having family issues?

What's up with us hanging out?

Girl: I didn't forget about us, we will have dinner together don't worry. I just have a school project I haven't even started yet so I need to do it.

Boy: Alright just keep me updated

Girl: I will

One month passes by and the boy says to himself :

Boy : This girl doesn't even want to have dinner . Why is she making so many excuses? If she knew she was going to be doing all this then why did she even bothered accepting my invitation to dinner. ugh...forget this bitch

That was an example of excuses. Now lying is when someone makes a false statement. Meaning there's nothing true about what's being said. Here's an example of lying:

Girl sees her boyfriend from a far distance with another female . She quickly hides and quietly watches her boyfriend kissing the other female. When she sees the scene she rushes home crying . Hours later she's calm and her boyfriend comes home :

Boyfriend : Hey baby ! How was your day ? I missed you Girlfriend: Where were you?

Boyfriend: I was at a baseball game with some guy friends, why what's wrong?

Girlfriend: Are you lying to me?

Boyfriend: Baby I will never lie to you. I'm telling you. I was at the baseball game with my friends Girlfriend: You're a fucking LIAR !!!!

Boyfriend: What the fuck are you talking about?

Girlfriend: I saw you kissing that girl outside, you weren't at a baseball game. I saw everything!!!

Boyfriend: B-b-ba-baby I can explain.....

Girlfriend: Baby nothing. You cheated on me and you lied to me! Leave my sight I don't ever want to talk or see you ever again. This relationship is over.

Now you see the difference between the two. Now the next chapter will start in the next page. I will focus on myself for a little bit and reveal some things about me that most people don't know about . I will also talk about certain things both men and women need to fix prior to dating or relationships. As women and men go through this book things will become more clearer . I don't consider myself a player , or a pimp. That's not what I am and that's not what i want women and men to view me as. You should view me as a ladies man or a man of women experience. Many women call me a ladies man . They see other women very comfortable with me and they agree that I'm a great man with good intentions. I don't tell girls I'm the right guy or that I'm different from the rest . I prove to them that I'm better than the rest. I believe actions speak louder than words. The bad thing about some men nowadays is that they talk and prove nothing. Women don't like a man that talks and doesn't back up what he says. It's kind of like a religious person telling people a god exists with no type of evidence to back up that statement. See how both things are similar? It just falls in the same category. So if you're a man just prove things to a woman. Don't talk. Me personally i hate when people talk and don't prove anything. If you love me , prove it. If you say you're going to hang out with me then prove it and come and hang out with me. I judge people by their actions. So if you talk tough I'll be sure to see how you handle yourself in a fight , if you say you're good at sex you better be good at sex since , I'm not just going to take your word for it.

Chapter 5: What You Should Fix

Would you believe me if I said that female security guards flirted with me when I was attending high school? Well, they did. One of them was decent looking and the other one was pretty enough for me to even flirt back. One of them loved my deep voice. I guess it was kind of turning her on or something. The other one always checked me out whenever I went through the metal detectors. Complimenting something about me. These were grown women. Probably in their 20's or 30's. I am not really sure. Maybe 40? I don't know. Nowadays women camouflage their ages quite well. So it's hard to tell the age of a person. I've flirted with teachers, with girls on the street, with mostly anyone that caught my eye. So what can I say? I'm a flirt at times. But of course that all stops when I get into a relationship. Now flirting with teachers was hard. They were teachers. So who wants to lose their jobs? A teacher would usually laugh something off. I'm a handsome man. They have said it many times. Sometimes girls just say it but don't want anything to do with you. You see me as a friend. I understand that. But many girls like me secretly. Expecting me to make a move on them. How can I make a move on someone that doesn't tell me if they like me or not? That's why people should fix the whole "Shy" thing. If you like someone then at one point tell them. How about if they like you back? There's a date! The problem with people nowadays is that they are afraid of rejection. I'm going to be very honest, I'm afraid of rejection too. I might be good looking to many women, but that doesn't mean I'm good looking to all women. I think I have a big nose and big ears. Some women don't see that. And I look at myself in the mirror every day. I'm just a simple guy doing simple things. If I die I probably wouldn't make a difference in anyone's life. That's how simple I am. But me writing this book I want to achieve more than that. I want to be remembered as the women guide. The man who understands women. I have asked women before "Hey what do you even see in me?" And the usual response I receive is "I don't know. There's just something about you" . I remember one girl told me "I don't know it's just something about you , your swagger and the way you talk, like you're not like the rest". And swagger by definition means behaving confident or being aggressive. And earlier in this book I had written about confidence. And confidence is a major thing when it comes to women and men. And most people don't have it. My confidence wasn't always high. I actually stopped asking girls out once i got out of Junior High School. I no longer ask girls out on a date. But I will talk to a girl and approach a girl if I need to. It all started with one of my EX girlfriends. She had told me she liked me in the beginning and soon I decided to ask her out (Make her my girlfriend). But things shifted the way I didn't want to. When i asked her out she said she only viewed me as a friend but that i'm a great guy. So I had to give her time. So yes she was my girlfriend at one point , and i still got her. But ever since that happened I just decided to stop asking girls out. Nowadays girls ask me out. And I tend to talk to a lot of good looking women. And if one good looking female asks me out then that's a definite yes. Plus I have to feel some kind of feeling for her. And its not because of rejection but its because of being put in the friend zone. I don't like being in that zone. Even if its temporarily and i get her afterwards. I just don't like the feeling . If you ask a man or woman out then continue doing it. This is just about me and how I am. I also don't like when girls ask me out and I don't even know them. It happened in junior high school. A girl sent another girl to tell me that she liked me and that she wanted to go out with me. I didn't associate with that girl at all. Why would she think I'd say yes to her? And the friend she sent me was attractive, I wish it was her asking me out since I knew her and talked with her. But this goes to everyone, don't send somebody to ask someone out for you. It just shows that you lack confidence. If you can't do shit yourself then you don't even deserve a YES from a man or a woman. That's another reason I didn't say yes to that girl. If she couldn't go up to me by herself then why bother? If she would've actually gone up to me then I would've taken the time to hang out with her. (I wouldn't make her my girlfriend). But I would just get to know her since I didn't know her. But since she sent someone else to do the work for her, that was just a disappointment. Like just go up to me yourself. You get respect for trying. That's why women and men like confident people. And to be honest, the girl wasn't even good looking to me. So by her sending someone it just made her look even worse than what she already was. And I don't mean to be mean but I'm just saying it how it is. Anyways, I'm a very smooth guy. The way I get women is smooth. Even other girls told me that I'm smooth with girls. Girls telling me that I am smooth with other girls? What!? You already know that I am doing something good if I'm getting that type of feedback. Let me tell you about an intern woman I knew and a T-mobile woman I interacted with. The story isn't boring so keep on reading. I wouldn't write something to make you fall asleep. In an old job I was in, there was this adult chick I liked. And she was like 23 or 22 I don't exactly remember. I had a crush on her. I normally don't have crushes. I know I have a crush on a girl when I dream about her, think about her, or if my words barely come out when I talk to her. I wanted to know if she had a boyfriend and her age. Well, I found out her age very smoothly. At that old job, I used to work in a school. I was the assistant of the principals assistant. I was an intern there. But I got paid. So I saw her walking down the hallway and I was passing some flyers to the teachers about an upcoming event. I handed her a flyer and she said, "No i'm not a teacher" and then I said "You're not?" She then smiled and replied "I'm just an intern here from college but like I don't get payed". Then I was like "I thought you were a teacher, so wait a minute what's your age?" and she told me her age and I said "Oh I see now... well my bad". And she laughed and replied "It's okay". So I received her age very smoothly. I didn't want to go up to her and say "Hey how old are you!?" because the first thing in her head will be, "What? Why does this guy want my age?" So I had to get the information in a very smooth way. Now finding out if she had a boyfriend was the hardest thing to do. But i had made it easy. I sent one of my girls to check it out for me. Girls tell girls stuff. I was the mastermind behind everything. And so when one of the girls found out she immediately told me if she had a boyfriend or not. And unfortunately, she did. When I heard that , I felt bad. She was gorgeous , her personality shined bright and I just loved how she was . Her personality made her even more beautiful. Me being an intern at the school wasn't going to last forever. So I remember in the end of my internship I told her how I felt about her. I said goodbye to everyone in the building (Well some actually). I sighed as i knocked the door of the room she was in. My confidence was high but I was worried too. When the door opened there was this young caucasian girl that I knew. She was an adult and she worked there. But I didn't know what the fuck she was. (Duh she was human). But I didn't know if she was a teacher or an assistant. I really didn't care. Since she wasn't the one I had a crush on. Don't get me wrong. She was attractive as well. But physical appearances don't always drive me close to a woman. So once the door opened she said "Hey what's up". Then, I said "I'm leaving". She looked up and down and replied, "Okay bye". My face then turned more serious than what it was. I found that rude and then I replied "I'm leaving for good". Her whole face changed and she said "Awww you're leaving? How come?" My face went from serious back to normal and I replied "Because my internship is over and I don't need to do it anymore". Then we kissed on the cheek and hugged and it felt like she was really going to miss me. Then I stepped into the room to say bye to Shailleen. (That was my crushes name). And she was sitting at a desk. I approached her and told her I was leaving. She got up really fast and said "You're leaving? Last time, you said you were leaving, but you didn't" and then I said "Well there was a situation last time and I couldn't leave. But now it's official. I'm actually leaving for good" and then she started telling me if I was going to college and stuff like that. I could feel the white girl in the background hearing our conversation and staring at me while I was talking. I remember I gave her a paper and the paper had my email on it. I remember I had given my email to many people I worked with. My boss, the ladies in the office and certain other people in that school that I said goodbye to. I regret it. Email? What the fuck was I thinking? I should have given her my Facebook or something else. I didn't have a cellphone at the time but damn the email was such a bad idea. And the email no longer works now since it isn't active anymore. So yeah I lost her for good. Well, I gave her that email paper and she said "Thank you". I noticed I couldn't tell Shailleen I had a crush on her with some other girl around. So my plan was to get her alone. Remember everyone, when you catch someone you like alone, that's the best time to talk to them! Always remember that. So I told her to step outside the room with me and she did. And once I saw that the caucasian girl wasn't around and it was me and Shailleen, I knew it was time to tell her how I felt about her. In my head I told myself "Fuck the shyness, fuck what happens, I've been having too many thoughts about this girl and I need all of that to end now". So i told her I had a big crush on her and she said "Aww sorry I have a boyfriend". As soon as her sentence was done I quickly said "Yeah I know". And I actually knew since the girls I knew found out for me . Way before she even told me. So I was ahead of everything. Then I said "I just wanted you to know". And then she said, "Come here , and give me a hug". And that felt so damn good. Have you ever been hugged tightly by your crush? If you haven't then you won't ever know the feeling. I wish that hug lasted forever. We then stopped hugging and I told myself I needed to leave since I had other things to do. That girl was just amazing. So I gave her a final good bye and shook her hand and she didn't like the handshake. She said "No i don't want that. Hug me". And in my head I was like, "Wow so much love". But yeah I said bye to her and she told me "Thank you for coming up to me and telling me that. No man has ever done that with me. It takes a lot of balls to do that" and I replied "Yeah that's how I am. Well take care". And she replied "Take care". Once I exited that door I felt such a relief. After that time I didn't have dreams about her or even thought about her like I did before. And as time passed by the feelings I had for her went away. Her body, those beautiful eyes she had , the guy that was with her was clearly a lucky guy. And if he doesn't treat her right he should get beat up. This girl was aggressive I loved the way she acted and that's the kind of thing I like in a woman. I don't think this book will ever get into her hands but if it does I just wish that shes happy . Because that's clearly what I wanted to give her , happiness. I made the story short and didn't put every single thing we were talking about since I can't remember everything exactly. Now let me talk about the T-mobile girl. Now this girl was like a sudden interaction. We connected fast . I felt it. I had went outside to get something for my boss and I was accompanied with one of my friends. (A girl) as usual. My boss gave me a list of things to buy from the grocery store. He wanted a sandwich and one of the ladies in the office wanted something as well . Now me and my friend are at the store and we are ordering. Then as i'm paying for the stuff that I ordered for the boss (It was his money in case you were wondering) I see this light skin girl come into the grocery store. She had a long coat , black hair , and she was attractive. Very attractive. I think the coat was light brown. And she was just standing there. Waiting to order next. And I found myself looking at her up and down. It was winter time so it was cold. I could see her rubbing her hands together. Trying to create some kind of heat to keep herself warm. She then turns to me and says "It's cold" . And I replied, "Yes it is". She suddenly starts walking to the back of the store to get a drink. And I had to go back there too since I needed to get a drink for my boss. So she opens up the fridge door and gets an orange gatorade. And I get a vitamin water for the boss. Then she looks at me and says, "Can you hold this for me? I'm cold" And I said "Okay sure thing". There're other people in the store, but she's only interacting with me. So clearly this girl found me interesting or attractive when she came in. So I'm holding her drink . I then put it on top of the counter. I then put my stuff there too. I quickly notice my friend doing a good job with the bosses stuff. So once the guy puts everything in the bag me and my friend are ready to leave. I just take a glance at the girl I interacted with and I said to myself "Am I really just going to walk out the store not knowing anything about this girl? She did make the first move so I should make the last one". So I look towards my friend and I told her in a calm voice "The girl I was just talking to I'm going to help her with the bags". I handed my friend the bag with the bosses stuff and replied afterward "Make sure you give it to the boss and tell him I'll be back in a couple of minutes". Then she said, "Okay see you inside". It felt good that she said that.

She knew I was trying to talk to this girl and she knew I would've felt bad if I didn't . So as she left i'm just standing there. The girl I was interacting with looks back and gives me the -Oh he's still here face-. It didn't took any words for me to figure that one out. So as soon as I saw that face I said, "I'm going to help you with your bags. You're cold". She smiled. Then responded with "Aww thank you". So when her order was done and the guy was packing up her salad and coffee and all that other stuff , some guy comes inside the store trying to sell some candy. And the guy tells me "You want to buy some candy?" and usually I say "No thanks" since candy isn't my thing, but the girl was looking at me and I didn't want to look broke. So I told the guy "Yeah i'll take two". Yes I was stupid. I shouldn't have done that. I know. So I pulled out my own money and payed for the candy. Then the seller asked "Is that your girlfriend?". My annoyed face appeared. Clearly the guy was trying to start a conversation because I had bought from him. "No, she's not my girlfriend" I replied. (Even though I wished she was. I was already getting attracted to her). He then said "Oh I thought that was your girlfriend" and a few moments after that me and the girl left the store together. And I was carrying her bags just like I told her. And she smiled at me and told me, "Do you have a phone?" and I said "No" and she said "I work right there at T-Mobile I can help you take a look at some phones" and i'm like "Okay". Deep inside I didn't like the fact that she was inviting me to her job. It made me feel like she just wanted to sell stuff for her store . But we got there and I gave her the bags . And she said "Thank you". She put the bags on top of the counter. I'm guessing some of the stuff was for her and for the people that worked there. Since it was a lot of stuff. She quickly said "I'm going to the back to hang up my coat" and i'm like "okay". And when she came back she was gorgeous. Her body was good. She showed me some phones and told me if I wanted to buy one on the spot. I told her that I had wasted a lot of money and wasn't going to buy a phone on the spot. She then asked for my ID. I saw her as she put my information into the computer. And told me to come back once I was ready to buy a phone. She said in Spanish , "Me caistes bien". (That means I like you in english). How the hell did she know I knew spanish? She then pulled out a store card. She then flipped the card and put a number down along with her name . When she handed me the card I asked her "Is this like your personal number or what?" and shes like "No its the store number". When she said that my whole face changed. I had the most confused face you could imagine. My face had a mixture of sadness, and bitterness. And in my head I was like "The fucking front of the card has the store number why the fuck did she write the number again in the back with her name?". I was disappointed. I saw her name and it said "Marlyn". In a disappointed voice I said , "Okay i'll let you know". And I exited the store. Maybe if I had a phone at the time things would've been different. I think about that at times. Days later I saw her again. We kissed on the cheek . She was headed somewhere and I was headed somewhere too. She had all black on. I remember she had tall black boots and I think she had a black skirt. It was a quick interaction. I never saw her again after that. She was dressed real nice though. Had leggings on , she had her boots, she was looking real right. And she was in her 20's . I never called her immediately. I called her one time though. Just to take her out for dinner. She wasn't at her job when I called . I then gave up. And never bothered calling again. And that story pretty much ends there. It seems that I interact with women really easy and they get along with me really easy. Not all women but most of them. Some women I can't stand. They just have attitudes even if you treat them good .Those are the kind of women I discard from my life. I like aggressive confident teasing women . There was one girl who actually made me want her sexually. No girl in my entire life made me want them sexually really bad. But this girl did. Normally I don't want girls for sex but she teased me. Thats the way she got me chasing her. Rubbing her ass on my dick , saying she would kiss me if she did not have a boyfriend . Like it got to the point where I wanted to just tell her "Hey do you want to have sex?" But I never told her. Her boyfriend was boring though. She had told me . He didn't take her out anywhere. And there was no type of spark in that relationship . I would've stolen her from her boyfriend if I was that type of guy, but I'm not. I don't mess around with girls that have boyfriends. That would bring too much drama. And who likes drama? I would've been a great guy for her, though. I like experimenting in a relationship. Taking my girl out to eat , to the movies , arcade , beach , give her massages, cook for her. I like to mix things up once in a while and spice up the relationship. I'm a very emotional guy at times. Not the crying type of emotion but the emotions I get when someone offends me. Like things tend to bother me fast at times. There was a friend of mine who I texted to make sure she was okay and she never responded. So I messaged her on a social network and she responded . It turns out I was texting her old number. Now my question is ...Why didn't she give me her new number when she got it? So that means if I would've never sent her a message in the social network she wouldn't have ever given it to me? I'm not that important to her? That's fucked up. What kind of real friend does that though? The sad part was that me and her always had good conversations and we connected whenever we spoke or wrote to each other. I don't understand why she couldn't send me a message or text and say, "Hey Christian I changed my number. Just messaging you to make sure you have my new one". But no that didn't happen. And i don't think anyone thinks like me. People always make excuses in moments like that. She didn't made excuses but there are people that do. Probably something like "I was busy so I forgot to give you my number".

Lame , lame , lame and ill say it again LAME!! If you make an excuse like that on a serious situation then you deserve to get lied to all your life. And you don't deserve to have an honest person by your side. I just hate excuses. Another bad scenario your friend leaving you and he/she is hanging out without you . Then he/she uses the excuse "I didn't went with you since you were sleeping , so I wanted to be a good friend and let you sleep". No ,No , No , No and NO!!! A good friend wakes you up and tells you "Hey today we are hanging out get dressed!" Some people nowadays are so worthless. And don't know how to use their words right. Words offend . Some people might not tell you , some people might not admit to it but they do. And i'm a man and words do offend me at times. Men are very good at hiding their feelings (Some) . Me im kinda good at it but I can't hold on for way too long. If something bothers me i'll speak out about it . I play a major role when it comes to honesty. I don't care if I hurt someone's feelings. If you're looking for honesty then i'm the definition of honesty. If a girl does something to me and I feel some type of way then i'm going to let her know what i'm feeling. Nowadays you can't hold back on someone and lie to them to make them feel good. Those days should end . Why lie? So you can become the liar of the century? If you need to lie to someone to make them feel happy then that's sad. Where are your morals? I just hate excuses and lying with a passion. Some people say "Sometimes lying can save your life" Well I agree. But it depends on the situation. Lying is good to do in some scenarios. Women like to lie when they are annoyed or when they don't want to talk to a man anymore. They will usually give you something like "I'm doing something i'll talk to you later" then never get back to you again. They are very good at saying something nice and then disappearing . Many women do it. I see women as indecisive beings. Women are so indecisive . And even though many say , "I know what I want". They don't. Now i'm not talking about materialistic things. If you want something materialistic then you want it. There's no doubt about that. But i'm talking about relationships/dating. There was this female I met. And for our first date she wanted to go to the movies. Now have in mind that this book tells you not to go to the movies on the first date. We went to the movie theatres though . We went to see the horror movie named "Sinister". Which released on October 12, 2012. Not only was the movie horrible, everything was just a waste of time. When we were in the theatres and the screen started showing movie trailers I told her about my book. I told her about that rule in "The Human Women Guide". At the time, I was still writing The Human Women Guide. It was still not done. After the film we talked and she told me how shes not really into movies. That she only wanted to watch a movie because she didn't know if we would have things to talk about etc. She told me about things she did like to do. Such as bowling and things like that. She picked the movies . I didn't . I only went with her to satisfy her. Because that's what I do. I satisfy women. Basically she was indecisive. She didn't know what to do for the first date and she didn't want a awkward moment with me. At times I do tend to make things awkward because normally that's what some things are. Awkward. I just hate the fact that women don't tell you what they want. I know women are not always supposed to tell you , but if I ask I better receive an answer. That girl I was with assumed about things as well. So not only was she indecisive, she's like most of the girls out there. An assumer. I thought I was going to find a woman for once that wouldn't be like other women. But I guess that's not going to change. Before the date ever started she had texted me saying that her mother gave me permission to come to her house. So basically I could come to her house and meet her mother after we watched a movie. Seems fine. It turns out that before we went to the movies she had told her mother that we were only going to see a movie and nothing else. Then her mother went to hang out with her friends once she was informed about that. And guess what happened? I couldn't go to her house. Why? Because of fucking assumptions. Every other guy probably wanted to have sex with her when they went to her house. Then I come along and I fall in the same category? Bullshit. She didn't even know me well enough to even assume some shit like that. I don't want pussy on the first date. A lot of women know how I am . It doesn't work that way. Ask women about me. Have I ever brought up sex in a conversation? Never. Did I have sex with any girl when I first saw them? Never. Don't take time off your life to assume things. Take time off your life to actually find the truth, because the truth does not lead to lies. Assumptions do. That's something many people need to understand. Now this girl thought I was like the rest of the jerks she encountered. She didn't even gave me a chance to prove to her that I was different. Which really isn't a fair thing to do. That day I was mad. I was disappointed. I felt horrible. That day I truly had to hide my feelings. I felt like the biggest piece of shit on this earth. The way I was automatically categorized as other men, had me feeling like I wasn't worth anything. She made me feel like I was just another guy she had met. I never told her how I was really feeling. Sometimes I have to hide some feelings. I don't want to seem girly or bitchy. That night she had apologized for the date. I never wanted her to feel guilty. I wanted her to understand. That's what some women don't realize. Women think men should understand them more . That's not how it should be. Both men and women have to understand each other. Men have feelings. Women have feelings. Both genders are not so different. Both genders burp , fart, look ugly in the morning etc. And I know all of that sounds nasty but my point is , that no one is special. And there isn't any superior gender. Men go to jail , women go to jail . Same shit. My job now is to understand women more. I have been doing that almost all my life. But who's going to understand me? I don't think any woman will ever understand me fully. The only person that could almost understand me is my best friend. And if I ever lost him , there will be no other person in this world to replace him. Hes the only guy I hang out with or talk with. Yes there are other men I hang out with . But sometimes it's because they're the ones who ask me if I can hang out with them. And I just say yes. Since I don't want to seem rude. Sometimes it's good for a guy to talk to another guy. Because sometimes both have the same goal.

Men talk to other men about women.
And women talk to other women about men. Thats how it is. Thats one of the reasons on why I would talk to a guy at times. Some men hang with groups of men. Then they call their groups of men "Bros" (Or whatever else they like to call them). Me I don't hang with groups of men. I hang with girls or my bestfriend. I don't feel right being surrounded by a bunch of males. Like what am I doing in a scenario like that? Makes no sense. Heres some issues with men. Men aren't good with words. And thats the truth. Men will say something and then regret it later on. But then it will be too late because what has been said cannot be taken back. I personally had moments where I would say something to a woman and then regret it later on. It seems men cannot think before they speak. Every man has this problem. And I think this problem can get fixed slowly if a man tries to fix it. Women compare men to other men. Women are always comparing . They will compare you to another guy shes met. Or another guy she's kissed. You will be compared. The objective of a man is to show a woman how different he is from every other man. So if you're a man, say to yourself "What's the difference between me and the rest of those other guys?" , or "What do I say differently?". If you ask yourself those questions you will see how you can change yourself to be a better man. I ask myself those questions all the time. I don't want to be like other men. I don't want to wear the same clothes as them. I don't want to act like them. And I don't want to say the things that they say. And sometimes they fail badly at talking with women. Do I want that? Absolutely not. Some men think appearance will guide them to women. Wrong! I have seen men dressing in expensive clothes and not getting a single number from a female. Not even having a full one on one conversation with them either. Clothes mean something to a certain extent. One hundred dollar watch ,three hundred dollar shoes , expensive pants and a shirtand no girl. Sad isn't? Same thing with girls. You can have all the expensive shit that you want. But men aren't interested in that. I remember one of my guy friends (Ladies find him attractive). He wore his hats , his nice clothes and before me and him started hanging out I always wondered how he had a new outfit everyday. Like everyday he would have a new outfit. So either he had a lot of money or he didn't. So one day we hung out and I found out his secret. (Well it's not a secret since he never stated that it was). His technique was , he shopped for very cheap shirts. And his pants weren't that expensive either. But his sneakers and hats were. And he would have a silver chain around his neck and his touch screen phone and some money in his pocket and everyone would assume he had money and a job. But I knew the truth. People did not. That's why finding out the truth rather than assuming is my best thing to do. I soon found out that this guy was being liked by girls with his cheap ass shirt , and cheap pants . So ask yourself now...will appearance guide you to women? Absolutely not. I'm not saying that you have to dress like a hobo. Or to do what my friend did . But keep things simple. Don't go overboard and make people think things about you that aren't true. Me i'm clean , well shaved , my clothes aren't too cheap or too expensive. And i'm still having nice conversations with women , making out with them and having the privilege to hang out with lots of them. A woman wants a fun guy . Thats the type of guy she wants to hang out with. That's why when a woman asks me "Hey do you want to hang out?" and I say "Yes" they are happy and excited to see me. Why? Because I spark things up. And i'm good at what I do. As a male or female if you're looking for love just let things happen. Too many of ya'll assume things about the next person you meet that you actually mess things up for yourself. Thats not cool . It's not fun. And some women have done it to me and guess where they are now?.. Not on my contact list. I don't want a woman that's going to be thinking about what other guys did to her and thinking if i'm going to do that shit too. I don't like that. All the assuming needs to stop. Men and women need to stop that. That's why things don't work out. That's why people get offended and that's why awkward moments emerge. And that's why people are discarded from people's lives. A man or woman hurt you in the past and you meet this new man or woman and you start assuming things about him/her. That shit feels uncomfortable. Especially if the other person knows that you're assuming things about them. It's an uncomfortable situation and I have been in it. I'm not the type of guy that brags and says things like "I'm different, I'm not like other guys..blah blah" I'm the type of guy that says "You want to know how I am? Then find out yourself, and I'm not going to say I'm different I'm just going to prove it to you". Proof is the key. With proof I have gotten so much respect from women. One time a woman told me "You haven't texted me all day. I thought you were interested in me" and I told her "I did in fact text you. Your phone maybe has a few problems. I texted you and I just took a screenshot to show you that I'm telling you the truth". I showed her the screenshot and she realized I was being honest and realizes that she needs to get another phone soon. Women respect you when you're honest. And if you have proof to back your words up then you will always win. I guarantee you. This chapter is called "What you should fix" for a reason. Men and women have some things they need to fix. And so far within the chapter you've analyzed and read some important things .Remember when i said "Men will say something and then regret it later on?". Well guess how it is with women? "Women will do something and then regret it later on". That's right. Women do things then as they get more mature they realize that what they did in the past wasn't so good after all. A woman can have a great man in front of her and actually go to the guy that treats her like shit. Not all women like the bad guy but it seems like women often go for those type of guys. The gang banger , the drug dealer , the player , etc. And those are the same women that complain about how love isn't for them. Of course love isn't for you. You just dated a damn gang banger who probably cut like 20 people . Or a drug dealer that has sold more crack than you can sniff on. Or a player that has had more sex than you ever did in your entire life. I'm not saying women should go for the nerdy guy or the guy that looks like he can't fight. But go for someone that isn't involved in deep shit. To all women out there stop going for those types of guys. This doesn't apply to all women. Some women just end up with jerks who aren't involved in any deep shit. But majority of the time women get into relationships with men who have fucked up lives. You want a man that has goals or a man that's being committed to something positive. If a guy is involved in negative things then what does that say about him? Better yet ...what does that say about you? (Since you're dating him) . Just think about it. Now let me get into apartments and houses. Now you're probably thinking "What is Christian talking about?". Well i'm going to answer that question right now. I've interacted with women who were 22 or 23 years of age with a job , their own place etc. I want to make it clear that maturity does not come from those things. Having your own place , a job etc. Does not make you mature. You can call yourself an independent person. But not a mature person. I have encountered immature women with all these things at hand. You have a house , a car , a job but can't even treat a man or a woman right. Thats a bad look. Most of the time the women that have all these things , the car , her own place etc..don't really know what they wanted in their love life. And being hurt from past relationships should not be the excuse. Lets face it . Everyones been hurt at one point. And it doesn't make you less of a man or woman to admit it. If men admitted more and women watched their actions more everything would be good . Men lie too much and they feel like that's their pathway to a better and more comfortable life. While women don't watch their actions. They do things and end up thinking about the mistakes they've made. And end up getting hurt. I've seen women get excited for one guy. And in their mind they're saying "Wow this is a great guy , he's different . We share so much in common blah blah blah" And then next thing you know , that guy that was supposedly soooo great and different hurts her. Women really need to watch their actions. Don't fall for the little sweet words that guys give you , or for the little nice actions they do for you . (Which normally doesn't last too long) . Analyze a man for at least a month before you start dating him. Analyze him when hes around you with his friends. And ask yourself "Does he treat me different while hes with his friends?". Because normally some guys do that. Especially if you're in a relationship. Around his friends he may just treat you like shit. And make you feel bad about yourself. It happens. Analyze him in public areas. Ask yourself "Does he treat me differently in public, when we're around a lot of people?". Analyze him when you're with his parents. And ask yourself "Does he treats me differently when he's around his family?". If he always treats you the same and always treats you good. And doesn't treat you differently. Then he's a good man. Always analyze a man and ask yourself questions before making any moves. Once you make a move without analyzing someone you're putting your heart in danger. You want to build a strong relationship. That's why you need to gather up all the information you can about a person before you even think about being with them. If you don't know what a person likes/dislikes, what a person does or doesn't do, etc...Then you're putting yourself in a predicament where you no longer have a stable love life because your horrible actions did not give you the outcome that you wanted. So there is no one else to blame but yourself. Met a bad person? , Your fault. Got hurt? Your fault . Your heart is broken...guess what? Your fault. You're the one that chose your partner. You're the one that probably gave a lot of chances to your partner. And you're the one that should've said STOP! or ENOUGH ! , When your partner did something really wrong to you. You can stop your heart from being broken. You can start by making better choices. I've seen men and women go back into a relationship with someone who has cheated or mistreated them. You don't go back to anyone that does those things to you. You have to show people that you are strong enough to leave them and discard them from your life. Don't be the puppet they can play around with.

Chapter 6: Starter Tips

You made it to chapter 6. By now you should have some major knowledge on men and women. But the knowledge doesn't end there. Now I will give you major starter tips when meeting someone or being with someone. The first tips are for women. I will talk about men.

- Pay attention more to a man's actions than his words.

The bottom line is that a man will show you if he's worthy based on his actions. Be with someone who continually displays actions rather than words

- You will never change a man so don't try.

The only time a woman really succeeds in changing a man is when he is a baby. If you're not okay with a guys behavior, race, religion, family etc.. Then most likely he won't change any of that for you. So my advice to you- Find another man

- Don't introduce every guy you date to your family

Stop introducing everyone you date to your family. Sooner or later you will break up with the guy so what's the point? Some families get attached to the guy and ask questions. It gets annoying hearing your mom or anyone else in your family say, "Hey what happened to the old guy? He was cooler than this new one". It will make you uncomfortable. And I'm sure it will make the new guy uncomfortable too. (If you invited him to your house and he's hearing). And you don't want that to happen (Because it usually does happen)

● Follow your heart not your thoughts

Remember that your heart will always be right. The thoughts you have in your mind don't help you out in relationships. If you feel that the guy you're with isn't right for you. Then your heart is right. He isn't right for you. And you shouldn't waste your time on him.

● Crossing the limit

No man should make you so upset that you will have to cry most of the time. If a man makes you feel like that, don't bother with him. A man shouldn't make you feel that way. Unless it's happy tears. Happy tears do not count

- Don't rush into children

Having kids is a huge responsibility. A responsibility that most men don't stick around for. Make sure you spend a lot of time with the man you want to have the baby with. I'd say 3 years or 4 with him, that should be enough. Enjoy being with each other 1st before anything. Once you see how he really is. Then you can decide yourself if he's fit for the father role or not. Don't waste your time having a baby with a man that doesn't have a job or has nothing going on with his life

- Never tattoo a guy's name on your body

As you know tattoos are permanent. Don't tattoo a guy's name on your body. Even if you love him he's not worth the permanent mark. How about when you start hating him? Or he mistreats you. Then what? Don't take the risk. It doesn't feel good when you get a new boyfriend and he looks at your old boyfriends name on your body and says something about it.

- Become great friends first.

Be great friends with a guy before you ever try dating him. Being his greatest friend will enable you to find qualities you like/dislike about him. When the bond is stronger he will change and get more comfortable with you. Trust me when I say this, the way he acts when you're his best friend will be different from when you first met him

- Fading

Looks will fade, passion will fade, but always find that one thing that will keep you and your partner together. Or else the relationship will fade as well.

The first tips were for women now these tips are for men. I will talk about women now

- Sex is mental for a female

Women are very mental about sex. You do anything sexual to them and they will remember it for the rest of their lives.

Give bad sex and they will remember.
Give good sex and they will remember.
Don't rush a girl into sex. Sex takes time.
You and the girl must feel comfortable before doing it. Women don't like being rushed into things at all.

● Find the one that likes what you like Most of the time men end up with women that hate what they like. Do you like baseball? You have tickets to go to a baseball game and the woman you're with doesn't like baseball at all? She wants you home every night? Does she complain when you watch your sports games all the time and doesn't give you a break for once? Then there's a problem.
Get with a woman that likes what you like. It makes things better and way easier.

● Crazy chick? What are you doing?
LEAVE

If you know a crazy girl and it seems like you can't handle her don't sit there and think that you can. Because the reality is...that you can't handle it. Even if she's beautiful. I've dealt with beautiful crazy women. It doesn't hurt to run away from a crazy chick. Trust me.

- Don't tell a girl I'll call you if you won't call

Most guys do the same mistake every time. When a date is done they'll say "I'll call you". Just don't say " I'll call you " if in reality you don't even want to call her. Because you're just wasting your time and you're wasting hers. She'll probably be waiting for your call and if you don't call she'll probably just feel horrible. Just say something like, "Alright take care!" or "I had a great time with you" and keep it moving.

- Confidence is key

I've mentioned this earlier in The Human Women Guide. Confidence is a really big deal for a woman. If you don't have it then you're not going anywhere. Make sure you build up your confidence before interacting with a female. Talk about something you're good at or something you like. That's a shortcut to confidence since you'll have a lot to talk about

- Money does matter

Some women might say "I don't care about his money" or "Money doesn't matter, what matters is the love I have for him" . Well, that's a whole bunch of bullshit. Coming from me you know it isn't a joke when I say money matters. From the experiences I've faced, it does matter. How are you going to visit a girl with no money if she lives a little far away? How will you take a girl out with no money? How will you buy a girl something she really likes with no money? Money matters. Money matters so much that sometimes it's the topic for any major argument. A woman can complain how a man is too cheap, or complain about how much the man is spending on other things etc...Money matters, so find a partner that will understand your situation and that will work things out with you. Never be afraid to tell a woman you're low on money. I personally don't like doing it but if I'm broke I'll usually tell her I'm leaving things for another time since now isn't a good time. And that will give her a sign that I'm either broke or not fully ready at the moment. Money is an issue big enough to split some couples up. So be sure to have your money right and make sure you're focused.

- Religion

This is really, really important. I have encountered women who believe in something different than me. Before you get into a relationship make sure you know what the person believes in. Because some people take religion way too serious and are very committed to their beliefs. Religion can be the cause of an argument. It happened to me before

- Jealousy

I didn't include this in the tips for women since this is a major issue with men. If you're a man avoid being jealous at all costs. I know it bothers and hurts since the girl you like/love is probably laughing and smiling and chatting with another man but take it easy.

- Don't let stress take over

I've seen it happen. The guy has a bad day at work. Comes home to his girlfriend and takes everything out on her. No, you don't do that. If you have stress don't let it take over and ruin your relationship. Put your stress aside and deal with your girlfriend the right way.

- Words offend women a lot

Some women are very sentimental. You call her fat or say something negative about her and she will remember it. Watch what you say to women. Usually, you can scare them off by saying the wrong things. Women at times will not tell you if you have offended them or if you have said something that they did not like. At times, they'll probably tell you at the last minute. Sometimes you won't even hear from a woman ever again if you offend her. So just make sure that doesn't happen and watch your words. Now that I have went over separated tips for both men and women I will now give my top 5 tips for both women and men non-separated. Which means no matter the gender, these tips are for you

- Party, clubber? Nope

If you're looking for a serious relationship don't hit the clubs trying to see if you'll land with someone that will last you for years. Because that's not the way to go. Why choose a party person? The person will most likely be meeting new people all the time and will only focus on getting drunk or probably getting laid. Let the party people date other party people and let them drown in problems. Save yourself the pain

- Daddy's little girl/Mommas boy

Don't go for a daddy's little girl or a mommas boy. Those who expect you to spoil them just like their parents aren't meant for you. It's a dangerous situation for your money.

- Meantimes don't shine

Don't be with someone for the "Meantime" , with a person that's most likely not ready for a commitment. If you're lonely it doesn't mean you should run off to anyone and date them. It is better to wait for the right person than to be with the wrong one. The wrong person might just distract you from the right one that actually shows up in your life. Many people invest time in people that they're not really interested in, just so they won't feel lonely. Don't do this. You will regret it

- The undecided ones

I think I've dealt with many, many undecided people. I personally don't like to deal with them. I don't have time to sit around waiting for a response from someone. So if you meet someone that says things like, "I'll let you know ", "Maybe", or "I will get back to you " you know what to do. If you continue to receive undecided messages from a person just don't even bother with him/her. Lose his/her number on purpose if you have to. They are either having a hard time making decisions because they are very insecure or he/she is not interested in you. Whatever the case may be just save your time and don't even bother with them. For your own good.

- All over -and- gone routine

Don't waste time with a guy/girl that is all over you at one moment and then the next moment he/she is irritated at you or angry at you for no reason. If this is happening for a while then instead of trying to figure out what's wrong and finding out more about this person, just make sure you find another person that's more stable. Life is already tough as it is and you don't need someone making it tougher or stressing you out

Chapter 7: The Truth Within Both Genders

What you will learn in this chapter The truth within both genders

- You will learn truths within the female
- You will learn truths within the male
- You will learn why you're still thinking about your ex-boyfriend/girlfriend (Only if you are)
- You will learn about the things I don't like about dating
- Men will learn how to be better men
- Women will learn how to be better women

This is nothing like chapter 4. In case, you were wondering. Now that you're further into The Human Women Guide I will go even deeper. Read carefully because I will be covering both genders. First let's talk about men. Men need alone time. I know I do. Some men (Like me) often need alone time when we are not feeling well. I hate it when a woman tries to figure out why I'm upset, or mad. Sometimes I just don't want to be figured out. I just want to be left alone. Completely isolated from the rest of the people around me. Expectations from women often scare men off. When a female expects so much from a man there's a problem. As a woman, you shouldn't be expecting so much from men. Men don't sit down and think about how gorgeous or rich their dream girl should be. Most of the time men really don't expect crap from a girl. Because they are usually looking at their cleavage or derriere. If she has none of those then men will focus on the face because a guy won't stick around if he doesn't find anything attractive on a girl. Most men don't like to see women cry. Not only do they see it as a weakness but they start to think "Damn this girl is too fucking sensitive". Then if a woman constantly keeps crying he would get tired of it. A guy doesn't want a whiny, sentimental girl. It drives them crazy. So try not to cry too much in front of a man (Show emotions but don't overdo it). Another thing about men is the complaining they get from women. Men hate complaints. I hate complaints too. I don't like it when I do something wrong and a girl wants to come out of nowhere to correct me and then complains afterward. It gets me pissed off. And as a man I know my mistakes and I don't need a damn tape recorder to repeat what I did wrong. Which, in this case is a woman. Women worry too much about what men are thinking. Sometimes they'll ask "What are you thinking about?" and as men we'll say "Nothing". Then women think its a lie and then they start assuming things such as "He doesn't want to talk to me anymore", or "Did I do something wrong to him?" etc.. You don't need to ask what we're thinking . Just watch what we're doing. Save your thoughts and assumptions to yourself and if you see a change of behavior in a man then that's when you ask. We don't like when women ask us what we're thinking. It gets annoying. And personally to me, it makes it seem like the girl is boring and she has nothing else to talk about. Why bring such a meaningless question? Now let's get into women. It seems some women don't like it when you ask them about their weight. I remember one time a woman made a joke about it when I asked her. And she said, "230 pounds". And then she laughed when she said it. But I wasn't laughing. She told me her real weight afterward, but this comes to show that women are a little uncomfortable in telling men how much they weigh. So don't ask a woman how much she weighs or ask her what size pants she wears. Don't even ask her how many boyfriends she's had either. She won't like it. Plus it's rude. Who cares how many guys she had? If she had a lot I bet most of you guys will get the wrong impression and if she had a few you'll probably think, "Wow this girl is a lame who probably isn't even good with relationships to begin with. So I'm not even going to bother with her". So either way, men will always have something to say. So don't ask a female that. If she tells you then that's fine but don't you dare ask her. Want to know who girls tell their secrets to? To their best friends. It doesn't necessarily have to be one of the girls that she knows. It can be a guy too. But women always tell things to their closest friends. I've seen it go down. A woman will tell things to someone they feel very comfortable with. I've had many women tell me about their situations and problems and even tell me their secrets. But I hold secrets so good that I soon forget them. Another thing about Women is that they just hate waiting. I hate waiting too. But a woman will think you're disorganized, and forgetful if you have her waiting around. The next thing about women, they hate when men talk about themselves. I know there're some girls out there that might say "No I like when a guy talks". But the reality is that women like to do the talking. So you should just let them talk and be a good listener.

Why you're probably thinking about your Ex-boyfriend/Ex-girlfriend

Maybe you feel guilty. Maybe you just broke up with him/her and feel like you're the cause that he/she is feeling sad or horrible. Some people's lives get messed up over a breakup at times. Another reason will be because you regret something. Maybe you didn't do something you've wanted to do? Maybe you think the relationship could go further than before. The next reason will be a bad ending. Maybe the relationship between you and your ex ended without reason. And you're sitting there wondering what the hell happened. And the last reason will be the obvious....you just want your ex back. Maybe you want to be in the arms of your ex again. And you can't even help it. Since the feeling is so strong. Let me give you the truth. The honest truth. I rarely date women. Things usually happen. I remember a girl asked me out on the phone. And it was official, we were together. And when we saw each other we just started bonding and we even had a little make out session. It didn't always happened like that with every other woman. But I just don't remember going on any hardcore dates. I know the perfect places to go on a date. And what to say to a woman. Sometimes in dates people make things feel awkward. Either the person barely talks, or you have the weird long awkward silences. Things like that creep me out when I do go on a date. I've learned that being late when attending a date is a major disappointment for a male or female. I remember one time I was late for a date (Not on purpose) and the girl was really mad at me. Of course she thought I was making excuses since I told her it wasn't my fault. Even when I showed her proof that I didn't do things on purpose she was still mad at me. But that's how women are. I don't like when someone on a date tells me their life stories. Dating is a time to get to know one another. Not to talk about yourself all damn day. And normally people that talk too much about themselves don't notice how annoying it is for the person that's actually listening to them. When you're on a date and you have a phone with you, turn it off. I hate when I'm on a date and the person I'm dating is talking on the phone with someone and texting other people. Like helloooo I'm here waiting to have a good time with you! And meanwhile all you're doing is paying attention to other things. That's rude and you should not be doing it. A date is like a test. It kinda resembles a pop quiz. Since you don't know what to expect. If you're on a date and you're having a great time then let it show. Smile, laugh, etc. Or even let the person know and tell him/her, "I'm having a great time". It really bothers me when I'm on a date with a girl that gives me no type of signs that she's having a great time. If I have to ask you "Are you having a good time/" then there's a possibility you won't have a 2nd date with me, or that you'll even hear from me. I don't like dull dates. I want the person I'm with to ask questions. This isn't a job interview but asking questions opens up new discussions. It seems people nowadays don't know how to talk or keep a conversation going. The longest conversation I've had with a woman was 6 hours straight. It was by video chat and I was talking with my blonde friend Joanis Varela. The discussions she and I had shifted between different topics. It was so good I don't think any of us wanted to stop talking to each other. I know how to keep a conversation going but if you're a boring person then things will not work out. I can't make conversations with someone whose boring. Sometimes dates get too crazy. Maybe you have a little too much to drink, or your partner has a bad moment and cannot recover from it. Which can be a total disaster? Always remember that your 1st impression is what everyone will always remember you as. So the 1st impression counts. For example if I met a drug addict for the 1st time and we became friends (I know what you're thinking. Why the fuck will I be friends with a drug addict?. Well keep reading I'm getting there) then i want to get him out of the drugs and be a good friend and help him. And soon he becomes a non-drug addict. And turns out to be a successful man. Will I always remember him as a successful man?. Absolutely not. This guy was a drug, addict. That was the 1st impression he gave me. He gave me the impression of a drug addict. Even though he changed I will always remember him as that. So the 1st impression is very important. It also applies when I was in school. In the 1st day of school, everyone wants to make a 1st impression on the new people. So they dress nice, smell nice, etc. 1st impression counts. If you dress like a hobo. Guess what people will remember you as? A hobo. They'll say things like "Oh I remember that guy! He was dressing like a hobo in the first day of school, smelling like a can of tuna". Even if you don't dress like a hobo now people will always remember that 1st impression moment for good. Here's a list I composed about things I hate about dates:

- Person mentioning that they still have some type of affection for their EX-partner
- Person saying "I'm in recovery from a past relationship" (This is sensitive information that should not be revealed in the first date)
- A person talking about financial problems (Talking about how broke they are or how much money they have. Which really doesn't interest me . It really kills the moment).

How to become a better man

Many women have told me "Christian I wish other guys were like you". The reality is, that there isn't enough of "Me" to go around. Which is the reason why I've focused on writing this guide. Since I want women to have better men and I want men to actually find some women. Now I don't have any deep dark secrets. I have just been around with women. But there're a few things you can do to become a better man. And the first thing is [Tell a woman how you feel and what you are looking for]. I'm always honest with women and I tell them how I feel and tell them what I'm looking for. You don't want to waste a girls time and only want her for "Sex". And then end up hurting her. If you just want sex you might as well just tell her. Like I'm being real honest. And if she doesn't want sex then leave her alone and keep it moving. As a man, you need to be very honest. Since honesty plays a very important part in life. The second thing is [Be a listener]. Women like when men listen. If she's talking and you're looking elsewhere and not paying attention, chances are she's going to get offended very fast. Remembering things a woman speaks about helps too. That way she knows that you're always very fond of what she says. The third way of becoming a better man is to [Be willing]. If you're not willing to do things that your girlfriend/partner likes then there's no adventure in that. Try new restaurants with her, see a chick flick, go shopping with her etc. The point is to mix it up. You don't want to get caught up doing the same things with a woman. The fourth thing is [Be a helper] whether you help financially or physically it does not matter. A woman wants a man that will help her and be there for her. She doesn't want a man that's always bringing her down and not making her feel good. The last and final step is to [Focus on the little things]. Now I left this one for last because this is a very very important one. This one is so important that even my own mother brought it up at one point. Men need to focus on the little things. When you see your girlfriend or person you admire, tell them how much you care. Bring a woman flowers, a teddy bear, etc. The little things do count. And you'd be surprised to see a smile on a girl's face when she receives something from you. There are some women that don't like flowers. I understand. I've met some. But it's your job as a man to figure that out. Some men are too plain and have never given a woman a flower, or a teddy bear or an anniversary ring, or never even brought her a pair of panties! That's boring. Spice things up. That's why dates and relationships don't last. And if you buy her panties try Victoria Secrets ;)

How to become a better woman

I love women, I really do. But they have issues just like men have issues. But the issues women have don't quite match with the issues men have. There're a few things you can do to become a better woman and the first thing is [Avoid being negative]. Complaining about your past relationships or having a whole negative attitude just doesn't look right. Also, avoid being negative towards yourself. There are women out there that say things like "I'm a loser", "life sucks " "I don't know why anyone would be interested in me" etc... I have 4 words for you, shut the fuck up. (Sorry I'm being too harsh) . But saying things like that makes it seem like you want attention or that you're just a lame girl that doesn't even have a life to begin with. And technically you do. So quit talking negatively about yourself. Most people find it annoying. You want compliments? Leave the negative nonsense behind. Or else you'll have guys saying "See ya later negative talker!" The second thing will be [Don't be too shy]. Some women are just way too shy. They can't even talk to a boy without stuttering and saying the wrongs things. Boys have problems going up to girls too. So you're not the only one. Be confident. What's the worse a guy can do? Just go up and say hi. And start a conversation based on what he's doing. Use your surroundings to help you. It works when you're first interacting with a man or woman. Life is only once. Don't waste your time sitting around being shy and thinking about "What do I say to this boy?". If you think about that then you will not do well. The reality is that you don't plan what you are going to say. You don't plan. You just say it. Do you plan a whole conversation in your head before you talk to your best friend? Do you plan a conversation in your head when you talk to any of your family members? Yeah, probably not. So it's the same thing with a boy you're trying to talk to. Be yourself. Be calm. Try to find out what he likes, his name, etc. The third thing will be [Be a leader not a follower]. Some women tend to follow what other women do. If a girl is doing certain types of things with her boyfriend, don't do the same shit with your boyfriend. Don't try and copy what other girls around you do. If another girl around you smokes, don't try and smoke to look cool. Make your own decisions.

Do what's right for you. If you're a nerdy type of girl and you like being that way then remain that way. Don't be a follower and follow others just because you think that they are better than you or something. The truth is they're not. The next thing you must follow in order to become a better woman is [Don't believe in everything that you hear]. Many females Believe in other females or believe in poor advice other people give them. No one should be telling you "I think your man is cheating on you so you should leave that man". The truth is that isn't advice. Don't go to close friends who don't know anything about relationships for advice. Most of the time the advice isn't good. The last thing is [Don't Expect]. Many women expect some kind of thing from a man. Don't expect anything from a man. Everything you expect usually does not turn out the way you expect at all. Most of the time expectations lead to disappointments. If you want to talk to a man, talk to him. Don't expect him to talk to you. If your boyfriend hasn't called you all day, don't expect him to call you. Call him and find out what's going on or something. If he still avoids you then just don't deal with him. Once you feel you're avoided by someone for a while, never disturb them again. And personally I've learned that the hard way. There have been times where I would be talking to a gorgeous girl and then all of a sudden the talking between us starts drifting away. She was obviously avoiding me for some reason, but it really isn't my job to play detective and figure out why she's avoiding me. Maybe her boyfriend doesn't want her talking to guys. Maybe she lost her internet? Maybe she likes me a lot but doesn't want to be too attached to me. There are many reasons. But I won't disturb her again. That's how it is. In life, you move on. You can't focus on one person that's making your life so complicated and weird. There're other people in life. Other options. Other opportunities. Why should you grasp into one human being expecting the best out of them when clearly he/she will not give it to you?

Chapter 8 : Conclusion to The Human Women Guide

So you've reached the last chapter of this book. Bravo, bravo. I just want to say thanks to anyone that has taken the time to read my guide. This guide is all based on real things that have happened to real people. It is my job as the women guide to give everyone advice that goes straight to the point. There are many dating/relationship books out there that cost money and when people pay for them and read them they are left with a blank face. Most of the time the books won't even have good advice. The advice will just be things you already know. A lot of stuff in this book comes from various experiences that people had. All that stuff you saw that women don't like, yeah that was from actual women. I asked people. I also tossed some of my experiences on here as well since I've been around with mostly women all of my life. I gained my knowledge from experience , and it was free. I didn't pay anyone to get the knowledge that I know. That's why people can read The Human Women Guide for free. I just want to help people. Some people think differently about me though. They don't see me as a helper. Sometimes people think I'm a rude person . And by rude I mean "Too honest" and others say "I correct people too much". But I correct people because I care. Sometimes I can be too caring. I tell people, "My reactions are the results of your actions". If you're not offending me or disrespecting me in anyway then there's no need for me to be rude at all. That's just how I see it. Well enough about me. Most of you probably grew tired of reading about me already. Lets review a few things from The Human Women Guide. This is the conclusion to everything so lets summarize what's been learned from this book. Okay we learned about dating and how you need to pick the right places to date to get valid results with your partner. Remember that movies and eating dinner shouldn't be done at a 1st date. You want to bond. You want to know the person more. You don't want to stare at a movie screen . And you also don't want to be feeding anyone on the 1st date. This isn't about feeding the hungry. We also learned a lot about texting. The reason why a woman won't text and things like that. The texting advice may apply to men as well in some points. So be aware of that when rechecking chapter 2 . We also learned the different signs women and men give . The signs that tell you if a certain person likes you or not. I also covered the whole "Cheating" topic. Many people want to be able to tell when a female or male is cheating. Facts about women and men were covered . Things that bother men and women. And things men and women should fix about themselves. I covered basically a whole bunch of important topics. And I went into detail. In this chapter I want to cover new things. And different things. But first I want to set up a list of commandments. Rules you should follow that will guide you in the right direction. The rules are not too hard to follow.

The Human Women Guide 10

Commandments

1. (For men) You shall not give a woman your contact details when first meeting her or connecting with her. 95% of women don't contact men first. Most of the time telling a woman "call me" or "text me" will not work. And if you think a woman will call you or text you , then think again. So ask her for her contact details instead. That way as a man you have control of the outcome

2. As a man or woman you shall not disturb those who avoid you. People who avoid you or seem like they are avoiding you , don't deal with them , or even contact them. When they reach out to you that's when you resume the interaction. In life don't feel sorry for no one if they don't feel sorry for you

3. You shall not put the name of your religion into anyone's life. Believe it or not religion can destroy a friendship or a relationship. There's been cases where one person would be religious while the other wasn't. And this will cause major conflict and vexation between both beings. You can let a person know if you're religious or not if they ask. But remember to only talk about religion if both beings can handle a conversation about it.

4. You shall accept a man or woman's figure. As you criticize someone's body just think about how yours look. Maybe you should stand naked in front of a mirror and spot all of your imperfections. Everyone has something they don't like about themselves. If you truly love/care for someone. Then accept them for who they really are

5. You shall listen to a man or woman. Many people get into a relationship. Whether it is a friendship or a love relationship. And in those relationships they don't listen to each other at times. You need to listen to people. A person talks and you listen. Don't get distracted by your surroundings or anything else. Maintain eye contact. You don't have to maintain full eye contact if its the same gender [For example ; If its a boy talking to another boy don't maintain eye contact if you don't want to. Personally i don't make full eye contact with someone that is my same gender]

6.You shall be honest when honesty is needed. At times there will be moments where you need to be honest. Lying should not be used when honesty is needed. I was going to write "You shall not lie" but everyone lies. And there's no such thing as never lying. That's why the title of this 6th commandment is not that. I'm trying to be as honest as possible when writing this. But my point is to say the truth when you need to. Don't lie just to lie. The more honest you are the better. That's all i have to say

7.You shall have a plan B. So you're in a relationship with someone and you two break up. Then what? If you have no plan B (Meaning a second plan) then you're pretty much stuck being upset all by yourself. You need to have a plan B .

A plan that will help you be in good condition in case your relationship with someone goes downhill. A lot of men and women don't have a plan B so they are stuck either crying at home , being depressed , etc. Your plan B can be talking with someone that makes you feel good , eating your favorite meal , etc. You're basically doing activities that will get your mind off the break up or bad relationship issues. Don't let someone stress you out. You can stop stress

8. You shall not fall by the trend. Many people are victims of this. They see something new and they want it. Just for the simple fact that it is popular. Don't go by the trend and don't buy a certain type of item because other people buy them too. Get what you like and be yourself!

9. Do not turn your back to those that are dear to you. There are people that come with good intentions. Don't categorize everyone in the same category. Just because someone treated you bad doesn't mean everyone else you meet will too. And just because one person is boring doesn't make everyone else boring. If someone is nice to you and actually wants to talk to you or makes time for you then appreciate that and be nice back . Just keep that in mind

10. You shall walk away from bad energy. Always walk away from a situation that has bad energy. If you're talking to someone and they come off rude just walk away from it. Just brush it off and prepare for the next opportunity with another person that might treat you differently. You cannot waste time with bitchy or rude people. When a woman is rude to me and we are texting i tell her to cool off and to not talk to me until she's calm. And that in the meantime i don't want to talk to her at all. And it works . And when i say this to rude women they tend to be nicer to me the next day or even apologize. And in person i just literally walk away from a girl. And leave her talking to herself. I don't have time for all of that. This is the end of the human women guide commandments. If you abide by the rules and by this guide I guarantee you will do better in your love and social life.

I want to talk a little bit about online dating. I have seen some people go towards this and based on my experience online dating isn't good. You should just stick to meeting people in person. I tried online dating a while back and it was a disaster. There was a girl that didn't even put her correct location. She let me know at the last minute that she was hours away from me. We weren't living too close to each other. And I don't feel like visiting a girl that's very very far away. And other girls I've met on a dating site they are so plain and boring. It just feels like they don't want to put no effort in anything. So why are you on a dating site if you're not willing to try? You know what I mean? After that experience I was like "No more". I rather stick to the usual. Which is meeting women in person and interacting with them in person. Normally when you start to look for a friendship/relationship on a dating site it just means that you have given up on the real world. And I felt like that when I tried a dating site for the 1st time. Nowadays not a lot of people come up to you in the street and say "Hey I want to meet you". But the dating site stuff is not worth it. Some people might think so butthe reality is that it's just a waste of time. "Hey, my name is Christian I'm from New York, blah, blah ,blah". It just gets boring.

Especially if you're saying that to a whole bunch of people you want to be friends with. I'm not giving up on love though. I'm just waiting for the right woman. As I'm writing this, i'm single. Focusing on me. Aiming for the best. There're others that are not doing that. Some people are smoking, dropping out from school, having no type of meaning to their life. Which is a sad story. I've found that the better I am with the women in my life, the stronger I can be as a male friend and the more direct I become. Approaching women cold is the same clarity I can focus on any situation in my life. A strong, confident, direct, unapologetic (but kind) man is the type of man who succeeds in dating and in life. So basically I see women as the guide to other things in my life. Women are complicated, life is complicated. If I learn how to deal with women then dealing with life shouldn't be so hard ..should it? That's my secret. That's why people don't ever catch me with a group of guys hanging out. Or taking pictures with 5 other men drinking liquor. That isn't me. The only pictures you'll see is me with a woman or women or by myself. I'm not encouraging men to stop hanging out with their guy friends and to only hang out with women. No, not at all. Every man needs a few guy friends here and there. Even I hang out with a guy friend once in awhile. Very rare, but I still do. I have one guy best friend. He and I share a lot in common. We live close to each other and we often catch up with each other with anything that's happening in our lives. No one can replace him since all other men don't share anything me and him share. I see him as an older brother. I learn from him. Not exactly about women, though.

Since that isn't his field. Hes not a women expert. Neither am i. Actually no one can be a women, expert. There's way too many races and differences in women that makes it way too hard to even be one. But let's just say his experience with women is nowhere near mines. He's a great guy who goes with the flow in life. He doesn't smoke or anything, he doesn't drink,hes not in a gang, he doesn't hurt anyone for no reason, he's a hard worker, he's just very calm. And those are the type of people I like having in my life. I know some of you might be wondering. "If he knows so many girls, why isn't his best friend a girl?". Well back in the days I had a girl best friend. The problem is that women cannot keep the best friend title for long. Either they change throughout the years or they simply vanish from my life without saying a simple word. This may not occur to other men who have girls as best friends, but it has occurred to me in a few cases. And I normally don't become friends with a girl and then out of nowhere start calling her "Bestie" or "Hey best friend". It just doesn't work like that. She has to share a lot of things in common with me and we have to hang out a lot in order for that to happen. I wish I had a girl best friend, but all the women I know are just cool women. None of them are cool enough to actually be a best friend. And it's not because I don't want to. It's because I really don't have too many things in common with the women I interact with. Yes, there's a lot of good communication, for the most part, with some women but nothing major. Now let's get into a subject I never got into. A subject that might be interesting to some of you. Yes, it's personal and I normally don't talk about myself. I never liked it. I always liked being the mysterious man that women never really knew about. So with that said, let's start. My mother. Now some of you might think "Oh he's good with women so the relationship with his mother is great". Wrong. The relationship I have with my mother isn't even all that great. It's actually really weird and bipolar-ish if you ask me. One moment she's arguing for no reason and another moment shes saying good morning. It's weird shit. I argue with her a lot since she doesn't get calm. And I tell her to calm herself but that doesn't work at times. So never tell a woman to calm down. She just gets worse. My mother will argue for the littlest things. I remember one time i said in Spanish "Don't slam the door , stop acting like a beast" and she got really angry and said "I'm a beast? eh .. well this beast is the one who brought you to this world. You want me to slap you across your fucking face and leave you with no teeth? Watch how you talk to me. Watch how you talk to me". And I would say "What are you talking about ? I didn't say you are a beast I said stop slamming doors like if you were one. I called your actions a beast I didn't call YOU a beast ma you are not listening properly" and she got even more mad. And said, "Oh so what are you trying to fucking say? Are you trying to say I'm crazy? That I don't clean my ears? I know what the fuck you're talking about . Don't hit me with that bullshit. I'm not a beast watch how you talk to me". And i would have to sit there and swallow my words and not say shit back. I don't like arguing. I hate it. My mother is probably the only woman I'll take shit from. I'm not taking shit from nobody else though. Some women say I give up too fast. That's because my patience is limited. I have a lot of limits. I will turn down sex, i will turn down a hot beautiful woman. I don't care. If a girl passes my limits then that's how i react . No doubt about it. Okay so I've talked about my mother. And now i want to curse out every man that just wants a girls pussy. (I'm kidding). But some of you guys just sound so damn desperate. You men make it so noticeable . You want sex ? Do you have money? Link up with some hoes. But please don't be with a girl just for sex. The sex will come at a later time. Just focus on making her happy. I know the world has been cruel to you and your dick probably has been dry for a few months now. I understand. I've been in those dry moments. But you're not getting your dick wet by automatically trying to get a girl into your house. Girls get scared when you immediately bring up and sex and things like that. Majority of women don't like that . Yes women like sex. Some tell me they enjoy it a lot. Some girls even do it more than twice a day. But what women want is love. Not just sex. That's the point . Now for the ladies . Even though throughout the book I've been saying positive things about women . And barely saying anything negative about women. I just want you women to know that you shouldn't take a year to give a man sex. Some girls take so long. And the problem with some of you is that you girls actually think a man will leave you if you give him sex. So that means you will never give him sex since you don't want him to ever leave you? If he deserves it then why not give him sex? If he's been working his ass off and being a real man and sticking by you, why not? Its crazy how sometimes the good guys don't get sex. And the real jerks out there get to have sex with women. Then those jerks leave those women after they fuck them and then women say "All men are the same". No , all men are not the same . You're just fucking with the wrong guys. That's all there is to it. The real nice men out there get treated like crap .

Women in the past have abused them mentally and have treated them like they weren't worth anything . And those nice men eventually turn into assholes since they got tired of women taking advantage of them. And what goes through their mind next? : "Fuck love i'm just going to fuck women and leave them". Sometimes jerks are just guys that used to be nice guys that got treated like nothing. And it was all the fault of a woman. So next time you say "This guy is too nice" and complain. Or say "There's barely any good men out there". Remember to just blame the females that don't treat good men properly. There are times where jerks are just born jerks. And normally can't treat a lady right. But most of the time some men were nice guys that just turned bad. If you have a nice man appreciate him. Love him. Tell him how much he means to you. Don't let another nice guy turn bad. There's a couple of things to tell if a man likes you. I'll list them for you

- He laughs at your shitty jokes
- He gives you a nickname

- He will ask you this question "What do you like in guys?"
- He asks people about you
- He asks for your number
- He doesn't let text conversations end easily
- He's nice to your friends
- He cares about everything you say
- He always has time for you
- He calls you just to talk
- He sees a girly movie with you
- He feels comfortable when you touch him
- He stops doing his favorite thing just so he can be with you

And remember don't hug your guy friend longer than your boyfriend. Follow my list and see who likes you.

I still have a long road ahead of me. And on that road i'm by myself. I came to this earth by myself . I started walking on this road by myself and i will end the road by myself. Yes there will be people on this road that will meet up with me at times. But when i die that will be the end of the road. A simple dead end. I admire those that have been by my side long enough. I still have much to learn from women. So for now i will continue walking on this road. Hopefully i'll meet a girl. A girl i can love. I want love. I want to fall in love deeply. I haven't fallen in love really, really deeply like others have. I just want something real. No bullshit , pure honesty. Things like that. I see myself as a weird man. My mother once told me you're a man with the mind of a woman. And i guess she was right. And if there was such a thing as a perfect girlfriend and i had her right now I would grab her hand , look deeply into her eyes and tell her : live on to the end with me and when we live on to the end we will remember the memories.....

P.S. If you enjoyed this guide, feel free to get in contact with me or spread the word about my guide to others. Thank you

Christian .O. Ortiz

11/08/2012

Copyright © 2012 by Christian Omar Ortiz. All rights reserved.

Quotations From Author

"Life isn't about the brand of clothes you wear, or about who looks the best. It's about the number of faces which smile when they hear your name"

"In life don't complain about anything if you're the reason for the outcome"

"Today I'll fix the mistakes I made yesterday and tomorrow I'll fix the mistakes I made today"

"In life don't feel sorry for no one if they don't feel sorry for you"

"In life do what you want. Because you'll regret it later on when you can no longer do it"

All was said by Christian .O. Ortiz and has been quoted the exact way Christian .O. Ortiz said them

